Why am I, as always, the only one writing superobvious articles, this time on Instagram and TikTok? These "random" suggestions are seen by many.

"If you leave open the door to Hell, insanity will ensue. A nightmare of nightmares. Truths twisted. Perversion after perversion. Until there is nothing left. The skylines will burn. Everything will be destroyed. So you keep that door closed! You keep that door closed!"

GENERAL DISCUSSION

100% in 2005 and 80% of 2005-08 Facebook board, besides Mark, tied in with CIA and datamining; all ties summarized

In all fairness, the origin story of Facebook and Instagram is quite a bit of fun to read, and certainly does involve tons of creativity, hard work, and adaptive thinking.[2] But the ties we discuss below, cannot be ignored either. And neither can we ignore the Instagram suggestions matrix discussed in this entire article.

Facebook, the company that bought Instagram in April 2012[3], had a lot of elite and CIA ties from the beginning. These continued for decades, and they also greatly overlap with Instagram, Twitter and Google. All these companies, and more, represent a very tiny network, mostly revolving around Stanford University. I have a long article about this, but I think a point-summary will be much more useful:

1. Mark Zuckerberg and fellow Facebook founder Adam D'Angelo graduated from the elite Phillips Exeter Academy in 2002. It has a centuries-long history involving Pilgrims Society members, Morgan bankers, Rockefellers, du Ponts, Coors, Dulleses and other future CIA officers; as well as at least a handful of apparent lifelong CIA assets.

2. Facebook co-founder Chris Hughes graduated from the nearby and similarly elite Phillips Academy (Andover), where three Bush family members and two Kennedys went. By 2012 Hughes was deeply involved in political activism alongside the likes of David Rockefeller, Jonathan Soros, Edgar Bronfman Sr., Soros-tied super antifa Jeffrey Sachs and other mixed Bilderberg and "liberal CIA" elites. [4]
3. Facebook, based on physical "dorm face books", was founded at Harvard, spread to other Ivy League universities, and became particularly big at Stanford. In this early period, it only was available by registering through Ivy League university email-adresses. [5]
4. In June 2004, while Systrom was revamping Stanford's photo-sharing service with Photobox, Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg and his CTO came to meet him "time and time again" through "a bunch of connections" that ran through "this fraternity at Stanford called Sigma Nu." [6] Systrom wanted to finish his education though, and a year later joined Odeo, where future Twitter founder Jack Dorsey worked as a key engineer. He and Dorsey became close friends. [7] In October 2010 Systrom reconnected with D'Angelo, who, together with Twitter's Jack Dorsey and to a lesser extent Zuckerberg advisor and Facebook director Marc Andreessen, played a pivotal role in getting Instagram launched. [8]
5. Whiz kid Sean Parker had a teenage CIA tie [9]. Parker was Facebook's early key advisor in the summer of 2004, in no small part due to a bizarrely coincidental second street meeting in California [10], and subsequently becoming Facebook's first president.
6. Sean Parker bringing in Reid Hoffman and Peter Thiel, two future Bilderbergers, as seed financiers in June 2004. [11]
7. Peter Thiel's Palantir was supported by Pentagon War on Terror architect and Bilderberg member Richard Perle and Iran-Contra's Gen. John Poindexter of the Pentagon's Total Information Awareness by late 2003 and early 2004 [12], with Thiel's ties to fellow neoconservative Richard Perle possibly going back a bit earlier. [13]
8. Thiel's Palantir, from about September 2005, getting CIA In-Q-Tel contracts to effectively recreate Total Information Awareness-type datamining [14], but now in private hands.
9. Thiel, apart from being the first investor in Facebook since June 2004, also was a board member of Facebook from April 2005 all the way to May 2022. [15]
10. Throughout Thiel's term on Facebook's board, his Palantir AI datamining firm was receiving contracts from the CIA, NSA, FBI [16], Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA), Homeland Security, the National Counterterrorism Center, the Marine Corps [17], U.S. Special Operations Command's (SOCOM) [18], home to the terrorist-assassination program Joint Special Operations Command (JSOC);

as well as other western police services and militaries, such as the ones in the Netherlands, since 2011; [19] and the Israelis. [20]

11. Palantir CEO Alex Karp and even more so Palantir chairman Peter Thiel not only having been long-time, annual Bilderberg visitors (respectively since 2007 and 2012, with Thiel being an unusual (neo)conservative in the mix and quite possibly Richard Perle's successor in this regard), but both being on the 32-man steering committee anno 2025. [21]
12. Between April 2005 and April 2006, Facebook developed a three-man board of directors - Mark Zuckerberg being the CEO - with a two-man board of overseers, a situation that remained until Marc Andreessen [22] joined the board of directors in June 2008, and (traditionally CIA-tied) Trilateral Commission member Donald Graham - of the traditionally CIA-tied Washington Post - in January 2009. [23] During this April 2006 - June 2008 period, three of these 5 people (and 4 out of 5 not counting Zuckerberg, i.e. 80%) had close direct ties to In-Q-Tel, the CIA's high-tech investment firm. In-Q-Tel's "bills" are paid for by the CIA [24], and therefore "runs almost all investment decisions by the spy agency." [25] Hence, In-Q-Tel is the same as the CIA. Details:
    - In April 2005 Accel Partners bought itself into Facebook, with Accel Partner Jim Breyer becoming the third director of Facebook next to Zuckerberg and Thiel for years to come. Breyer shared directorships with In-Q-Tel board members Anita Jones and Gilman Louie, the latter In-Q-Tel's first chairman. [26]
    - In April 2006 Greylock Venture Capital invested in Facebook, with Greylock's David Sze - who sat on the board of future Bilderberg company LinkedIn since 2004 - becoming one of Facebook's two "board observers". [27] Greylock had In-Q-Tel director Howard Cox on the board, who in turn also shared a board with both Breyer and In-Q-Tel's first chair Gilman Louie. [28]
13. "Informal mentor" to Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg [29] and subsequent Facebook director Marc Andreessen [30] - and thus surrounded by CIA In-Q-Tel-tied people - personally knew Kevin Systrom since about 2007 [31], and provided him with $250,000 in March 2010 [32], in what was launched by Systrom - with major PR from Twitter's Jack Dorsey [33]- as Instagram on October 6, 2010. Systrom's old friend, Mark Zuckerberg, similarly surrounded by In-Q-Tel-tied people, eventually bought Instagram in April 2012.

Mind you, ISGP is far from the first publication to suspect that Facebook was used for purposes other than just connecting people around the world and making some money. In 2008, the Guardian newspaper - financed by the "liberal CIA" Ford and Rockefeller foundations - already looked at the In-Q-Tel ties and went:

> "[All this leads to] the idea that Facebook is some kind of extension of the American imperialist programme crossed with a massive information-gathering tool."[34]

A full ten years later a smaller publication wrote:

> "[I'm] saying that at this very same time, In-Q-Tel [and thus the CIA] was a company that was very, very interested in gathering the kind of data that Facebook would have to offer."[35]

The only difference is that ISGP suspects that Instagram, on behalf of the CIA, is used not just for information gathering, but also for controlling the narrative by spreading propaganda and disinformation. The fact that Netflix co-founder, chair and CEO Reed Hastings joined the board of Facebook in June 2011 only unscores the propaganda aspect. Netflix-produced shows, similar to Hollywood, are incredibly pro-race mixing, pro-feminist, and pro-LGBTQ. As these lines are being added, Netflix once again is under attack over it: by congressmen calling its transgender propaganda to children under 13 "demonic". [36] In-Q-Tel-tied Peter Thiel and Jim Breyer still were on the board when Hastings joined, with only Donald Graham of the long-time CIA-tied Washington Post having joined in between. [37] The In-Q-tel-tied David Sze still was an observer as well. [38] These people don't really get involved with anyone they do not trust to follow the globalist agenda, whether its on the left or the right.

Ironically, the 2008 Guardian article, despite discussing Thiel at great length, doesn't even mention the word "Palantir", even though the firm's purpose falls completely in line with what is being suggested in terms of national security datamining. This may not be surprising, because only in 2010 did Palantir set up the faintest of websites. [39] The 2018 article does mention In-Q-Tel's tie to Palantir, but doesn't discuss Palantir in any detail, preferring to focus on In-Q-Tel. It kinda shows for how long Palantir has been flying under the radar, despite occasional exposés having been written about the firm since at least 2012.

These CIA and national security ties did not begin and end with Facebook and Instagram. By 2009 both Google CEO Eric Schmidt - the Bilderberg steering committee and Trilateral Commission member - and Twitter founder Jack Dorsey were working with the State Department's Jared Cohen, who ended up running Google's Jigsaw think tank, "doing things the CIA cannot. [They have a] covert role in fomenting [Arab] up-risings, to be blunt." [40] Dorsey was independently accompanying Jared Cohen to Iraq in April 2009 [41] and aiding the Iranian protests a few months later at the request of Cohen. [42] In January 2010, Cohen, Dorsey and Schmidt were part of a dinner with secretary of state Hillary Clinton, to provide "all [the] tools ... to practice 21st Century Statecraft." [43]

The security state ties of companies as Facebook-Instagram-Whatsapp, Google-YouTube and Twitter above raises additional questions, for example with regard to the role the media in having shepherded the entire planet on just a handful of search engine, video, messaging, and social media platforms. Alternatives such as DuckDuckGo also have security state ties [44], but let's not even go there now.

Take the case of Elon Musk: the moment that Musk took over Twitter from Jack Dorsey in October 2022. Right at that instant the international "anti-racist" media rather shamelessly put out an endless stream of articles with headlines as 'Life after Twitter? Here are alternatives for anyone looking to leave'. Initially mainly Mastodon was promoted, but really also, even more shamelessly, Jack Dorsey's new Bluesky project and Mark Zuckerberg's upcoming Threads app. [45] Now, Musk, similar to his good Bilderberg friend Peter Thiel, is "conservative CIA" - so not even fully independent from "the establishment". Imagine how little attention anything truly independent would get, which is estimated that it might become a national security issue? Probably as much as when mainstream and alternative media had figured out that ISGP was independent: none.

We can give additional examples, but the above ones do indicate that besides connections, money, and media attention, national security is woven into everything, at a certain level, in certain business enterprises.

I already have a separate article on all the historic personal and national security ties of Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and Google (which can easily be extended to Quora, Netflix, etc.), but this summary is probably all we need. I might expand this section a bit more in the future.

Vindicated even before publication: covert vaping algorithms

In 2025, even before this article was published, there was controversy in the Dutch media about doctors, in coordination with the Stichting Rookpreventie Jeugd (Youth Smoking Prevention Foundation), wanting to start a lawsuit against Snapchat for its use of covert algorithms that disproportionally promote vaping products to registered teenagers, despite these products having been banned by law in 2024. Doctors noticed that when they typed in key words as "shabba", "vippa", "puff", or "poffertjes", they barely got to see any vape dealers; only their teenage lung patients did. [46] As a lawyer for the group said:

> "If SnapChat can recognise and exclude naked pictures, it can exclude the promotion of vapes..." [47]

A tie between Snapchat and vaping incidence already had been scientifically noticed in the summer of 2020. [48] But even after the Dutch ban on vaping in 2024, Snapchat refused to change its algorithms.

This controversy is all nice and well, of course, but forcing a social media platform to comply with new national vaping rules obviously is the tip of the iceberg - and only brought to light because a ban on smoking and related nicotine products is an aspect of acceptable mainstream concern. No mainstream disinformation exists (anymore) that lung cancer statistics have been "faked" and everyone warning against it is a "conspiracy theorist".

The whole point of this article, and the ones on TikTok and Google, is that the masses need to demand public control and insight over the covert, privately-developed algorithms of social media platforms and search engines. Having a basic fair algorithm, like the one Google introduced in 1998, isn't all that hard. From there you only have to control the amount of disinformative websites exploiting this basic algorithm.

Satan piggybacking on the "social" aspects of social media

The whole modern social media phenomenon - in particular TikTok and Instagram - is fascinating. If you read, listen to, or watch any traditional news media, you see that quite a bit of crime, entertainment, weather, science and random happenings is mixed in. You can also somewhat easily shut it off or shut it out: you don't have to read that newspaper, you mute news programs, you switch to another channel, etc. It can be annoying seeing pro-immigration, or pro-LGBTQ, or pro-feminist propaganda, but especially as a teenager, you barely listen to the radio or watch the news. Whatever you get, just shut it out. You don't talk about it at school anyway.

Social media as Instagram are different, because here you go to talk to your friends, to see pretty girls or guys, get information from classmates, get fitness tips, get some entertainment, and maybe make business or career connections. On top of that, it's easily accessible, 24-7.

But what is piggybacking on that true social media aspect?

That would be Satan: in the form of boatloads of unsollicitated "culture war" propaganda. Take "Satan" in a religious sense or as the Supranational Authority on Terran. Your choice. In the end it is all about twisting anything that is truthful and genuine. We will get back to that aspect.

A key problem here is that there's very little control. You open Instagram or TikTok: they don't show you a neutral page. No, a lot of what they are showing you from the first second is "random" suggestions - and you end back up with those "random" suggestion screens all the time. The owners of these platforms refuse to give you the option of shutting off that propaganda frontpage, or additional propaganda suggestions. They also refuse to give you easy toggle buttons to make selections of regions and topics that you do and do not want to see. Want to only see suggestions of girls from your neighborhood, within 5 miles? And maybe the next day girls, restaurants, news, or pet videos from Tokyo? And nothing else? Yeah, good luck. You can't. You just get the "culture war" mixed into everything that you try to actually follow.

"Liberal CIA" vs "conservative CIA" with every swipe

On top of that, when I look at my Instagram app, all the endless bickering over feminism, LGBTQ, immigration, and Israel can quickly be classified as swipe "liberal CIA / antifa", swipe "liberal CIA / antifa", swipe "conservative CIA / alt right", swipe "liberal CIA / antifa", swipe "conservative CIA / alt right". It goes on all day, every day.

Does Instagram also send you into additional "subject loops"? Sure: fitness, big-boobed girls, cooking - you name it. But there is very little control, and the political suggestions always get mixed back in sooner or later - no matter how many people you follow or get followed by, how much outside content you like, or how many channels you block.

At least for me.

I also know that what my YouTube account thinks I like, barely is compatible with most of what I get offered on Instagram and TikTok. On YouTube, depending on my regularly shifting moods, I get to see:

1. MMA;
2. motorcycles;
3. car fixing;
4. Formula 1;
5. songs I like and have liked;
6. occasionally some defense-related news;
7. or gun review videos;
8. or some home fixing;
9. or something related to latest laptops or GPUs.

That's about it. If I briefly look up a specific subject, such as latest CPUs/GPUs or how to fix something around the house or with motorcycles once in a while, YouTube quickly recognizes within a few days that that is not a daily interest of mine, and quickly stops offering me it when I don't click on it anymore, or search for it.

Instagram and TikTok just don't care. They refuse to offer you any proper or fair topic searches and just bombard you with all the "culture war" propaganda they can find. And if you tap on any of this propaganda - because the transsexuals, gays, or mixed couples are just such a shock to look at - these platforms always very sneakily and very instantly go, "Ahah! You like it!" And offer you tons more. Endlessly.

The reason for this difference seems simple. You don't go to YouTube to follow, snoop on, or communicate with friends, love interests, models, etc. In that sense, YouTube doesn't provide a "primary need". So it has to behave a little bit. But platforms as TikTok and Instagram don't have to. There's too much seduction there for too many people - with too much international big media support - to just ignore it.

In other words, social media is the ultimate propaganda and brainwasing tool. Not because of its traditional, good aspect of connecting people and business - but due to the impossible-to-circumvent propaganda algorithms build on top of them. And the total lack of proper search functions, as Google once introduced in 1998 - and then fully discarded between 2015 and 2017.

Social media is the CIA's National Student Association [49], American Society of African Culture, African American Institute, and Congress for Cultural Freedom [50] all mixed into one, on steroids, and on every other performance enhancing drug.

Individuals seldom seen in real life

Maybe to underscore the propaganda aspect slightly more: how often have you seen flamboyant gays or transsexuals in real life? Maybe the percentage is higher when you live in California or for people that go out a lot, but I've only once seen a guy walking around on high heels in a kink-leather outfit. That was in mid 2025, and likely a person influenced by social media. So what's the percentage there? One in 10,000? It was an interesting episode too. First I noticed him. Then I forgot about him in 5 seconds. Subsequently, two minutes later, I heard an unusually raspy voice, like a demon, that made me look what on Earth was going on. Turns out it was this same SM-tranny-type guy, joking with an uncomfortable-looking cashier and other customers in line.

Very weird.

In similar fashion - and maybe I'm not talking about Americans or non-white groups in Europe - how often have you met people who believed in chemtrails? Or 9/11-no-plane theories? Or that the Holocaust didn't happen? And were completely and totally close-minded about it? How often have you seen Nazis? Skinhead or brown-coat types? Or hardcore bum antifas? I've never seen them in person. On TV footage with regard to (staged) protests, sure. But outside of that, they seem to be pretty rare. So why do I see them on TikTok and Instagram all the time? Without even asking for it?

The point is: Instagram and TikTok are always "empowering" the 1% or even 1 promille of society, making it seem like these people's behavior and views are "the norm".

It's very dangerous. When George Floyd died in May 2020, the propaganda and pressure was overwhelming for any prominent or semi-social (western) media model to support #BlackLivesMatter, at the expensive of any discussion of the nasty, dysfunctional, belligerent criminal Floyd was. It's pretty much the same in 2025 with Gaza-Israel War and Israel-Iran War: the pressure to support the Palestinians and criticize Israel about literally everything is overwhelming.

But it's all a show. It is all due to covert algorithms on suggested content and likely also what type of comments get upvoted.

Once the public gets control over the secret algorithms, all the opinions are likely to mellow out, at least among western whites.

"Perversion" of truth is key

What needs to be addressed a bit more is the "perversion" aspect of not just social media, but the globalist movement and conspiracy in general:

- If someone talks about the JFK assassination, people associate it primarily with the idea that Oswald "didn't do it", or often as well with disinformation of JFK being shot by his own driver or there having been more than than two shooters. Why? Because those are the theories that gained prominence through key "researchers".
- If someone talks about 9/11 Truth, people associate it primarily with no planes hitting the building. Why? Because 95% of 9/11 "Truth" researchers have pushed this type of disinformation.

- The Protocols of Zion, released in 1903, might well be the only widely-spread work that on many points perfectly describes the "plutocratic" conspiracy of the globalist movement, yet the words are eternally discredited because it is a Tsarist fabrication aimed at persecuting the Jews.
- If someone talks race IQ (or ethnic crime), people associate it with Hitler and early 20th century eugenics. But Hitler and the eugenics movement - both of them backed by the Morgans, Rockefellers and other robber baron families - made a good superficial argument in favor of a major genetic component to race IQ, but for the rest filled everything in with chauvinism and pseudoscience, even falsely labeling Eastern European whites and European Jews as inferior in IQ.
- In his 1925 book 'Mein Kampf', Hitler warned against the emergence of a "European-African mulatto state", that blacks already are "systematically defiling our inexperienced, young blonde girls", and against the pushing of the "Theory of Human Equality", for example by newspapers promoting stories as how "for the first time, a Negro has become an attorney, teacher, a pastor..." Hitler's book is > shockingly prophetic in terms of the "mulattofication" of Europe and the extreme "woke" agenda of the globalist movement a century later. In both cases though, Hitler blamed "the Jews", including "Jews running the stock market", for being behind this secret agenda, something copied in later decades and centuries by the Liberty Lobby, the Rense Radio Network, and eventually "alt right" pundits as Dan Bilzerian and Nick Fuentes who are promoted by Instagram's algorithm. Maybe we should be lucky that 'Mein Kampf' has mostly been banned, with no one knowing its contents.

In other words: supporting Hitler is not dissimilar to cheering for a 9/11-no-planer in charge of a 9/11 investigation, or a 'his-driver-shot-Kennedy'-promoter in charge of any new JFK assassination investigation. Yes, important issues are being discussed, but key details (or in Hitler's case, much of the execution) are misrepresented or "perverted", discrediting the entire movement. In the past people have called this aspect the "poison pill": You give the people a degree of truth, but poison the truthful information with disinformation, so that no one can tell truth from fiction anymore.

The poisoning of conspiracy talk is extra clear due to the avoidance of any proper research on genuine conspiracy, for example how western multinationals financed and helped build the Nazi war machine.

It's this mysterious phenomenon, seemingly regularly working a century in advance, and always managing to put any truth-seeker on the defense, that we also see having taken hold of what still is termed "social media". Because social media promotes "liberal CIA / antifa" versus "conservative CIA / alt right" and conspiracy disinformation at a global scale. But beyond that, there seems to be a perverse element in there; an enjoyment of messing with people's heads. Here's what we have been seeing on Instagram in 2025 and in years prior:

- Pretty much never-ever a genuine conspiracy theory video. It always involves blatant disinformation.
- Trannyism is often pitted against traditional Christian values. We also saw that, for example, with the intro of the Paris Olympics of 2024. It was all raining blood, the Horsemen of the Apocalypse, Bacchus and transsexualism making a mockery out of Jesus' Last Supper. Or what would obviously be seen as Jesus' Last Supper.
- The promotion of "feminism" versus "modern women are useless" propaganda.
- Abortion being elevated from "an unfortunate necessity" to a carefree everyday event.
- The promotion of pedophilia together with videos that pedophiles should be murdered.

A good example of perversion. The obvious answer is that you can't do this in Chicago due to violent black crime. And hence, it's a bad idea to get a lot of black people into the Netherlands. It's similar to a TikTok video I saw by @apesontape complaining how white Dutch people are the most racist on planet Earth... These type of posts ending up in your suggestions literally comes across as a dare: "Dare to say it, and get banned." Or it might even be a way to cause psychological breakdowns.

- It is wildly pro-Third World immigration, promoting black-white intermarriage and showing anything from colonial outrages to black people demanding reparations; only for you to be shown the occasional black machete fight, Arab and black migrants fighting the police, harassing white women, or taking over whole western cities; or bushmen ripping a cooked monkey apart to eat it with their bare hands.
- It promotes both white and black people giving their arguments as to who would win a "race war".
- The only promoted videos of white people wearing braids involve "cultural appropriation" criticism, of which there is zero mention with all the similarly-promoted videos involving black people wearing cowboy outfits.
- Suggested videos of black people hiking in nature fall into two opposite, conflicting categories: black people ridiculing white people for doing this, and politely greeting each other when passing each other; or black families complaining white people are "racist" for not expecting a black family to hike in nature...
- The only person I found mentioning African race IQ at one point, soon turned out to be massively racist against Jews, as most of the entire "conservative CIA" movement became in 2025, fully supporting "liberal CIA" and the antifa on this matter.
- When people finally were allowed to talk about white people becoming minorities in the U.S. on Instagram, it involved people being glad about this, with stupendous arguments as "finally getting some flavored food".

It's very strange. Instagram simply pushes all the perversions / distortions / poison pills and their controlled oppositions, whose ranking in importance seems to be based on how quickly they will end any stable, evolved, high IQ society.

EARLY SUGGESTIONS

2015-2022: lots of models, mixed with LGBTQ, BLM, black manchette fights, migrant police fights

Being older and having no particular person I want to socially banter with, I personally didn't take a look at Instagram until 2015. How it was before this time, I don't know. From what I understand is that it was a lot more "social" and less commercial and sex-focused, but I have no clue about the suggested "liberal CIA"-type content that was shown on the front page.

At the time, as a side quest, I actually was looking for some models for an early version of CultofCupid.com, but had a hard time finding suitable ones through Google Images and other search engines. Really some of the first Instagram suggestions shocked me: they were perfect. And in terms of supermodel perfection, Instagram offered a ton. None of it copyright free or obtainable without a certain "status" in terms of number of followers - but good stuff for some non-profit site-building.

I don't specifically remember the globalist-type propaganda suggestions on Instagram of 2015-2016, but luckily, in one of the older ISGP articles I still have a screenshot of a typical Instagram frontpage of 2017. It can be seen on the right. This is what Instagram "randomly" showed me with a Dutch IP and not following anyone or anything. I.e., a LOT of stuff I did not want to see. In summary:

- A few semi-personal preferences.
- Sexually suggestive content, albeit way less extreme than after 2022.
- Some LGBTQ: some "feminized" male gay couples in particular.
- Pretty much zero Asian videos: Japan, China, South Korea, etc.
- A lot of videos of African negroes working out in places as Nigeria. Also some "humorous" (read: usually very predatory or insanely dangerous) Arab videos.
- A HUGE amounts of nauseatingly violent videos involving blacks and Arabs - enough to tell you something is wrong with too many Third World residents.

Bizarrely violent content as black machette fights were gone somewhere by 2019-2020, but immigrant police fights did remain in the suggestions ocassionally. It certainly is what was frequently shown on the emerging TikTok platform.

2020-2021: random "too sexy"-bans, and livelihood of pro-Trump models destroyed

I'd say that probably until 2021, maybe 2022, a lot of semi-random (non-Asian) modeling channels were being suggested, even when you had just joined with a blank slate. They really still primarily were modeling channels, generally with OnlyFans links. There was some style and artistry to it, often carried out by professional photographers. They were not yet tits-and-pussy-in-the-camera, pure sex channels with names as @milasmilkies - as overly sexual content still was being deleted.

There also were TONS of girls posting sexy pictures complaining their channels had been deleted, very often without there being any consistency to the bans, and almost no way to appeal them. I always thought it pretty bizarre that all these often superwealthy models allowed such a dictatorship to exist. Then again, what are you going to do without support from the media or politics?

I specifically remember in early 2021, the channel of a model named Natalie with 5.4 million followers was deleted purely because she spread pro-conservative, instead of pro-Democrat, propaganda. She might well be the largest account that was removed along these lines. Again, this propaganda was very mild compared to all the dedicated conservative-versus-antifa propaganda channels being artificially boosted in later years. Natalie just occasionally posted MAGA pictures, criticized (black) riots, or poked fun at the Covid vaccines - whenever such things were an issue in the media. Was it propaganda? Unfortunately it was, a lot of it at least. But other, more famous models were posting opposite propaganda, and of course were never touched.

Instagram censorship anno 2020-2021: 1) Model supports Trump. 2) Soros-type trolls start reporting all posts. 3) Soros-type Instagram moderators play along by flagging ordinarily fully acceptable content as "nudity or sexual". 4) Repeat step 2 two more times. 5) Delete account.

The way Natalie's account was removed was simply by flagging some very mild, ordinary posts of her as "nudity or sexual" and boom! Account deleted. This clearly was politically-inspired, as Natalie did not have any issues before strongly coming out in favor of a Trump reelection. It even seems to have been a clear message to the outside world that Instagram and its moderators are above the law, as the moderators could have flagged considerably more sexual (but still very common) content. They didn't, which surprised me. They just went for the mild content.

While completely lawless, this censorship on Instagram had become the norm by then. Already at that point, Google had stripped its search index of any conservative media, and so increasingly was Google's Youtube. The era of blatant internet censorship had begun on April 25, 2017 when Google announced it would start to artificially boost "authoritative" content in its previously self-regulating domain ranking system. [51] ISGP already had been targeted with psywar-type Google censorship since at least October 2015, possibly not unlike what happened to the model Natalie above on Instagram in 2020-2021.

LGBTQ-PEDO

From hyper-sexual, to sexual perversion

I'm not so sure about TikTok, but Instagram used to recommend pretty, normal-aged models, who generally were posting sexy to quite sexual pictures (the latter more risky in term of account penalties), but with still an artistic and modeling aspect. Professional photographers often were used as well.

However, by 2024-2025 Instagram largely replaced this by perversion: from AI-generated sex-worker-types, to 18-24-year-old women with MASSIVE natural breasts bouncing up and down, to child pornography - with the three often overlapping. These were among the first recommendations. For weeks I couldn't even get away from this, despite paying regular attention to normal, popular flesh-and-blood models I only knew about from back in 2017-2020.

Maybe it was two months in that Instagram all of a sudden decided to start recommending some additional human models, but it always was super-limited. I tried finding some human Asian models: just nothing of interest came up. Instagram kept looping back to 5 or 6 of them: all hyper-sexual and over half AI.

Gays

As fun as "Daddy Demarkco Fleming" is with his "I'm an aggressive DOM TOP. ... They call me King Kong in my pants." remarks, when did I, as a heterosexual, sign up to be confronted with a long list of gayboys proudly bragging about all their sexual escapades, including cleaning up the poop afterwards? I assume the idea is to make every man alive gay, or at least bisexual, far beyond any natural percentages. Less babies. Less families. More perversion.

Gays have always been pushed by the Instagram algorithm, but it became a lot more explicit somewhere around 2024. It wasn't even until 2024 that I first heard terms as being a "top" versus a "bottom".

I personally worked with one gay guy, and a very outspoken one, putting the cringe on everybody else. There wasn't an issue there. Still, as a heterosexual man, I prefer to have a toggle button that blocks gay content from showing up, unless I specifically want to take a look in that corner of the internet. It could easily be considered abuse if such a block button isn't there.

Transsexuals

During the final stages of writing this article, this segment certainly got even more relevant. First we had a mass shooter in Minneapolis killing praying children at a Christian church, his peculiar motive tied in with the fact that he was "tired of being trans, I wish I never brain-washed myself." [52] Well, he didn't brainwash himself. The media and social media did that for him. Two weeks later we have a kid confessing to his ladyboy lover that he just shot "conservative CIA" propagandist Charlie Kirk (discussed in this article as well), because he "had enough of his hatred. Some hate can't be negotiated out." [53] Looking at the words used, this killer is just parroting typical social media propaganda. Two weeks later the similarly very young transsexual would-be assassin of conservative Supreme Court justice Brett Kavanaugh was sentenced to 8 years in prison, with lifetime supervision. [54] In November 2025 it came out that 2024 would-be Trump assassin Thomas Crooks - an anti-immigration, pro-Trump troll until 2020 and then 180 degrees started posting against Trump - used to identify as "they/them" on his DevianArt page and liked posts of "muscle mommies" dominating scrawny men. [55] In another coincidence, Crooks used to chat to a member of the Nazi group the Nordic Resistance Movement [56] , which has worked with the Instagram-preferred Hamas-loving Nazi Ken O'Keefe.

In other words, just looking at these four cases in this short period of time, it appears that social media propaganda algorithms are heavily contributing to making a whole string of victims - in both casualties and perpetrators, and all their friends and family members. People are literally losing their minds.

In any case, the transsexual aspect, while it has always been part of the Instagram algorithm, is much more aggressively pushed once you click on one of the videos. Examples of what I personally have been served with:

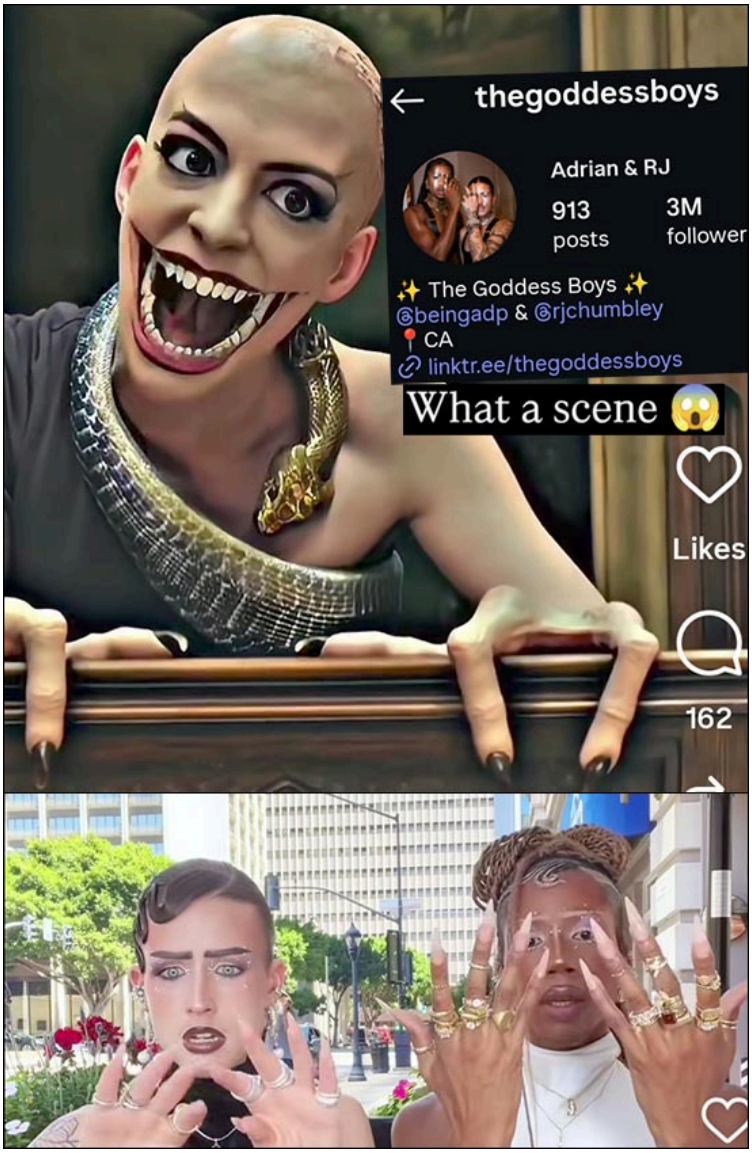
The deformed and handicapped reel suggestions discussed in a lower section actually ended with the following suggestions next to one of the reels:



Gay and tranny Muslims and blacks

Ultimately, Muslims aren't spared either from LGBTQ propaganda. They too are pushed into accepting and turning into gayboys and trannies:

Turkish tranny on German TV
Coming Out as Gay to My Mum 🌈
Gay Arab date on Dutch state TV
Moroccan gay on Dutch state TV
Sugar Fest for queen/gay Muslims on Dutch state TV
I'm transgender

Al-pushed gay Dutch Moroccans

The same goes for black guys:

There will be signs indeed...

As I'm writing this, I see Snoop Dogg is threatened with cancelation by criticizing Disney animation movie 'Lightyear' having scenes involving a (black and Mestizo) lesbian couple with a (black) kid, prompting his kid to ask him how this is possible. Trump might be in charge of the government and Musk of Twitter/X, but immediately Snoop's reported $5 million Australian Football League (AFL) - which has been suspending players left and right for using "homophobic slurs" [57] - is threatened with cancelation, because two, likely highly-sponsored ex-football players love selling out their soul:

> "Snoop will be cancelled this week and rightfully so. You can't isolate a minority group. ... It's reported he is being paid $5 million... You just don't know what he's going to do."[58]

As said, maybe it should be considered abuse by shoving "woke" propaganda into the faces of straight people.

Blacks, Arabs, and Latinos might be happy with the race quotas, but in the end the crime, cultural desolation, gayness, transsexualism, feminism and other perversions are coming for you all.

Child porn - mixed with "kill pedophiles" hints

From at least late 2024, and seemingly even more in 2025, blatant child pornography (well, "erotics" - but let's use the informal "porn" here) has become part of Instagram's algorithm. Click on one such video, and soon you'll be served with an endless list of child pornography. It literally was among the very first "random" suggestions when I got back onto Instagram in May 2025, with a new account:

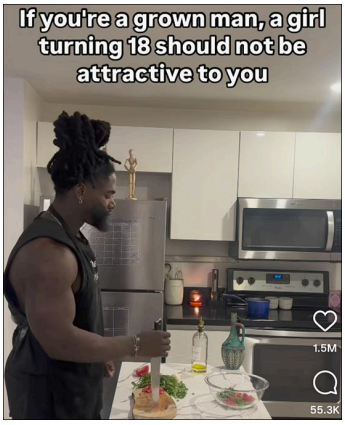
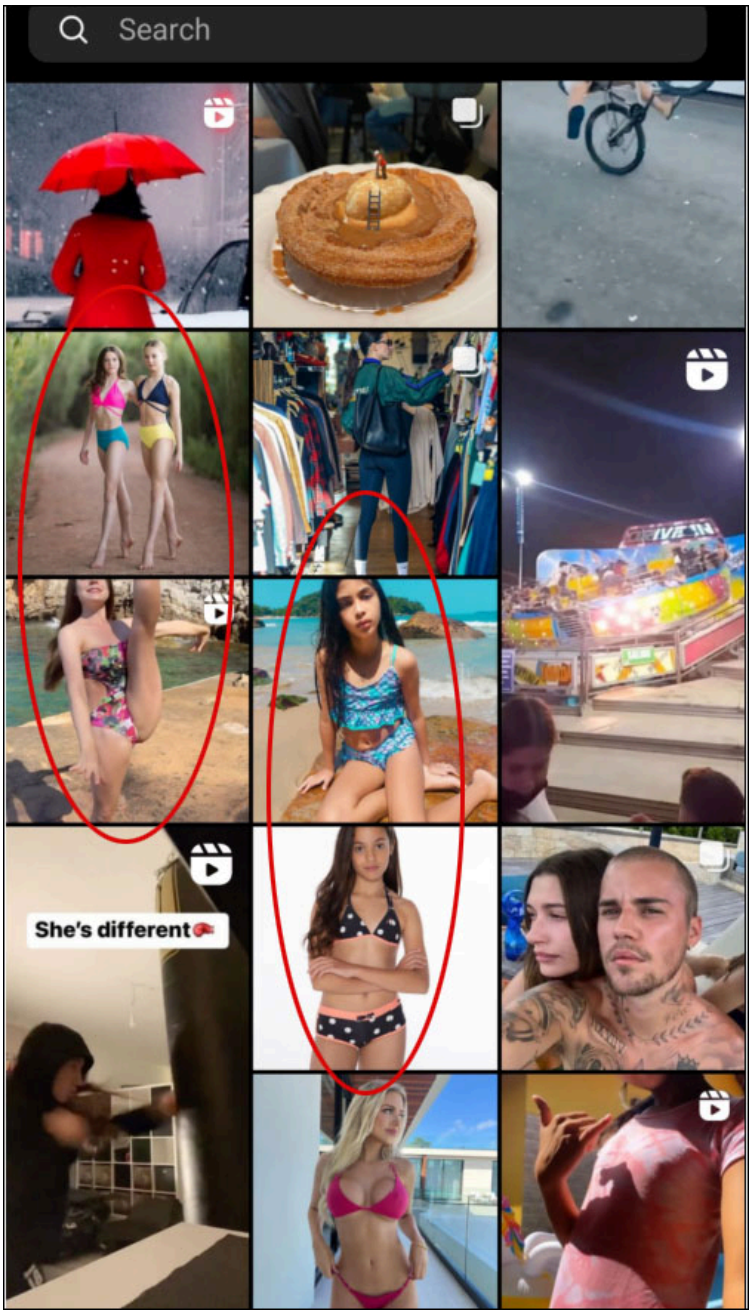
Ironically, this child porn material was interspaced with the occasional post that anyone who is attracted to underage teens needs to be killed, as can be seen on the left.



Child porn actually is back from having been away, at least for me. Below are Instagram frontpage screenshots from early 2023. I'm not sure if my account was targeted by Meta or the security services, but all of a sudden roughly one-third of ALL suggestions involved (suggestive) child pornography. The fact that so many of the girls were having these not-so-attractive, almost warped East Block faces, only added to nauseating demon-feeling. It actually made me delete my account:



Some of the channels suggested were pretty large too. @deusvikke at 215,000 followers was not insignificant. It also was one of the channels that continued to exist for weeks and months afterwards, without being deleted by Instagram. I checked the followers and there was almost no one from western Europe or North America. It was dominated by Arabs, negroes, Latinos and some people from the East Block. That's the effect of "globalism": if you only allow polite westerners on the platform, you'd have less than 10% of the world's population in your pocket.

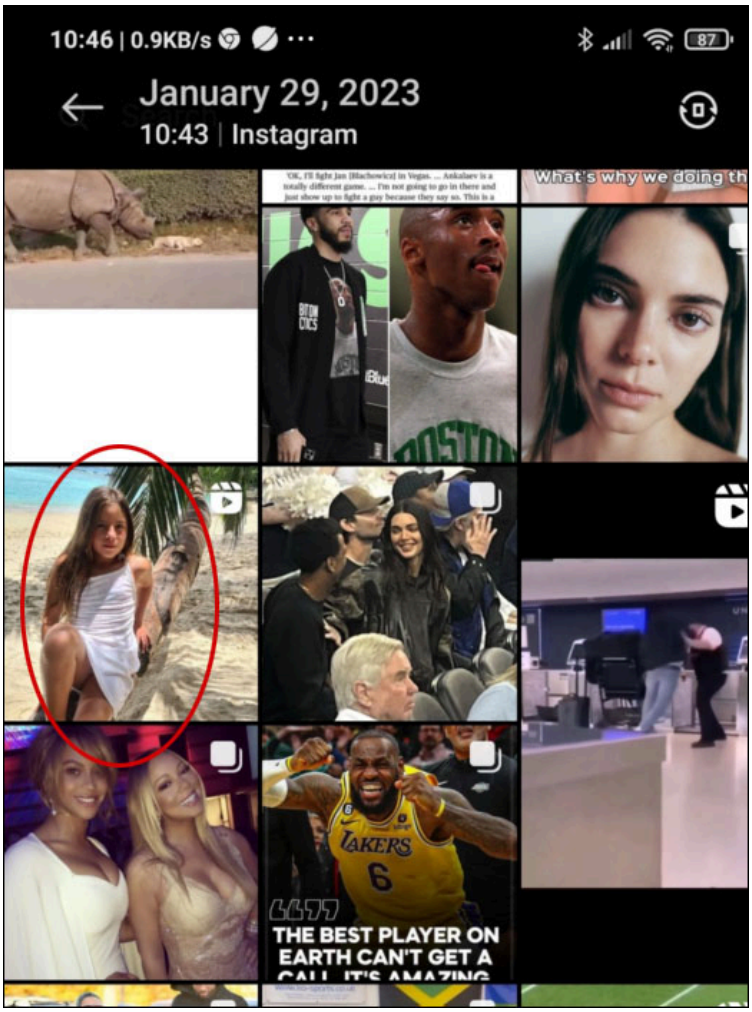
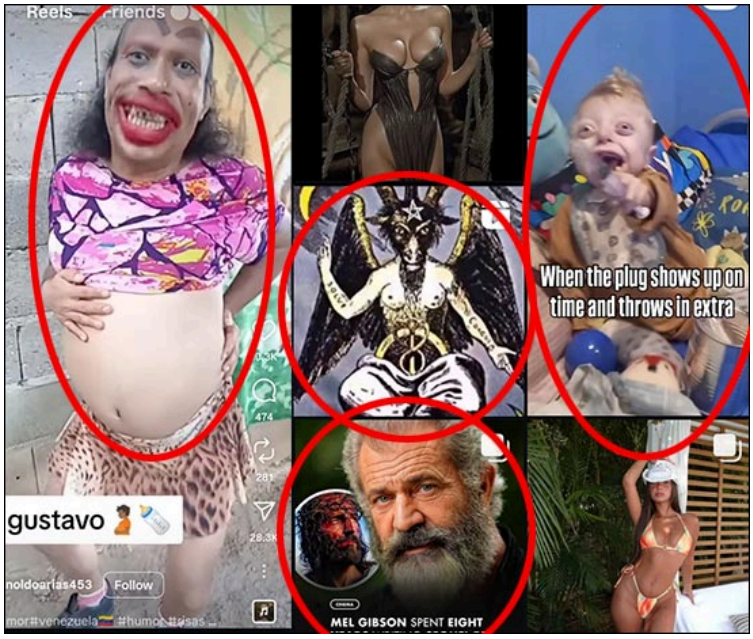
See here a screenshot of my Instagram frontpage. Apart from featuring "all things black" WAY out of proportion, and about 97% more than I want to encounter it, how on Earth does Instagram manage to suggest an UPSKIRT of a 7-year-old girl? It did that ALL the time, as you can also see in some of the above screenshots. It literally must have been programmed into the algorithm.



It is not credible in a million years that Instagram moderators did not know about these child pornography channels. They might delete most after a few weeks, but they allow them straight back into the algorithm. Even ignoring the usual "report this post"-procedures by users, by 2023 AI face recognition had already been implemented by TikTok and one assumes Instagram - as TikTok's Chinese sister app already did so in 2019. [59] So mixed with the comment sections, past names of channels, it should immediately filter out such channels. But it didn't. And you can see two years later that it seemingly never was the intention of Instagram to do so. It's just one more perversion.

"Hell loop": deformed and handicapped people

On August 9, 2025 I again ended up in a "Hell loop", similar to the impression I got with the child porn in early 2023. This time all of a sudden I was shown reams of a different type of perversion: a combination of transsexual, deformed and handicapped people, often clearly with the intent of poking fun at these people. The first two screenshots I made were the ones below, by which time I went, "Something odd is going on here":



I didn't even notice the (tranny) Satan and crucified Jesus suggestions until analyzing the screenshots for this article a month later. I was just paying attention to the suggested reels:

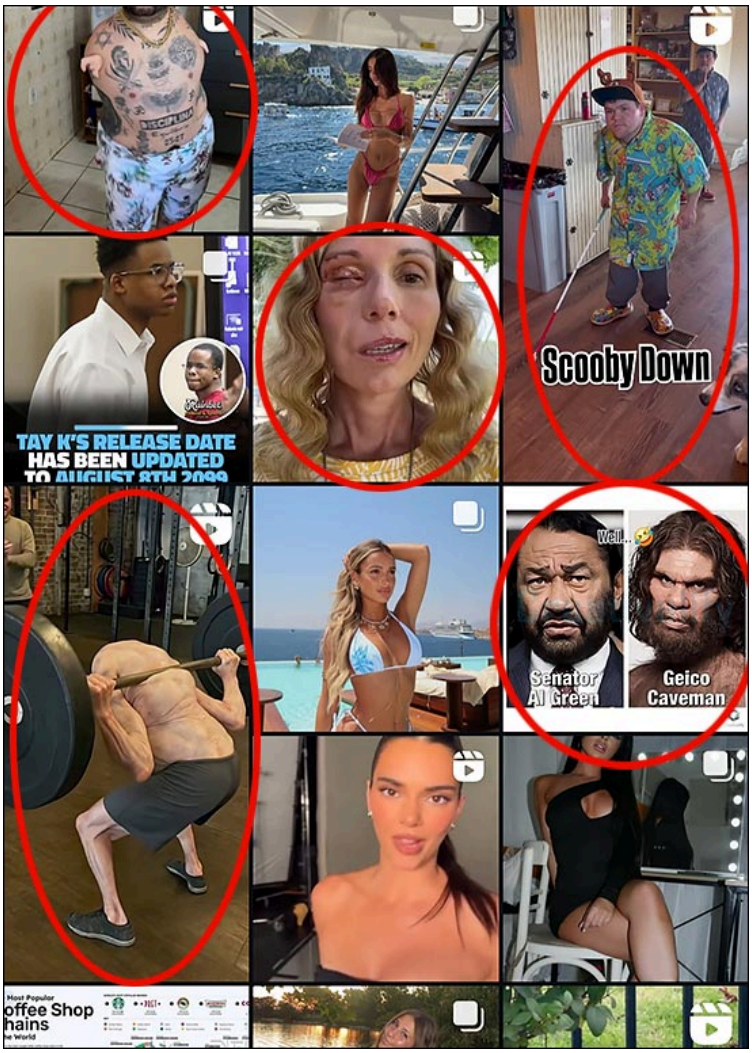
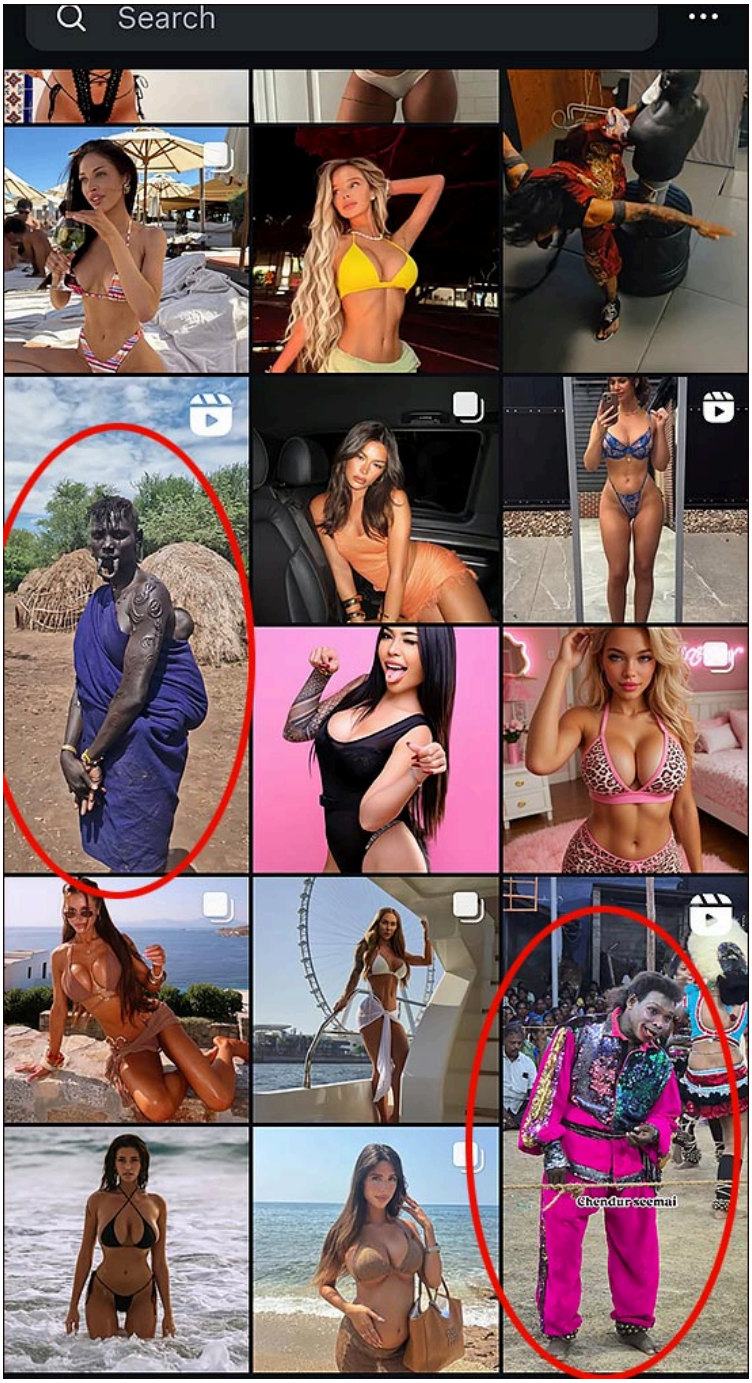
Looking back, the wooden-looking puppet, the old woman, and Scorpion (with his Hellfire theme in the movie) all have a bit of a demony-theme.

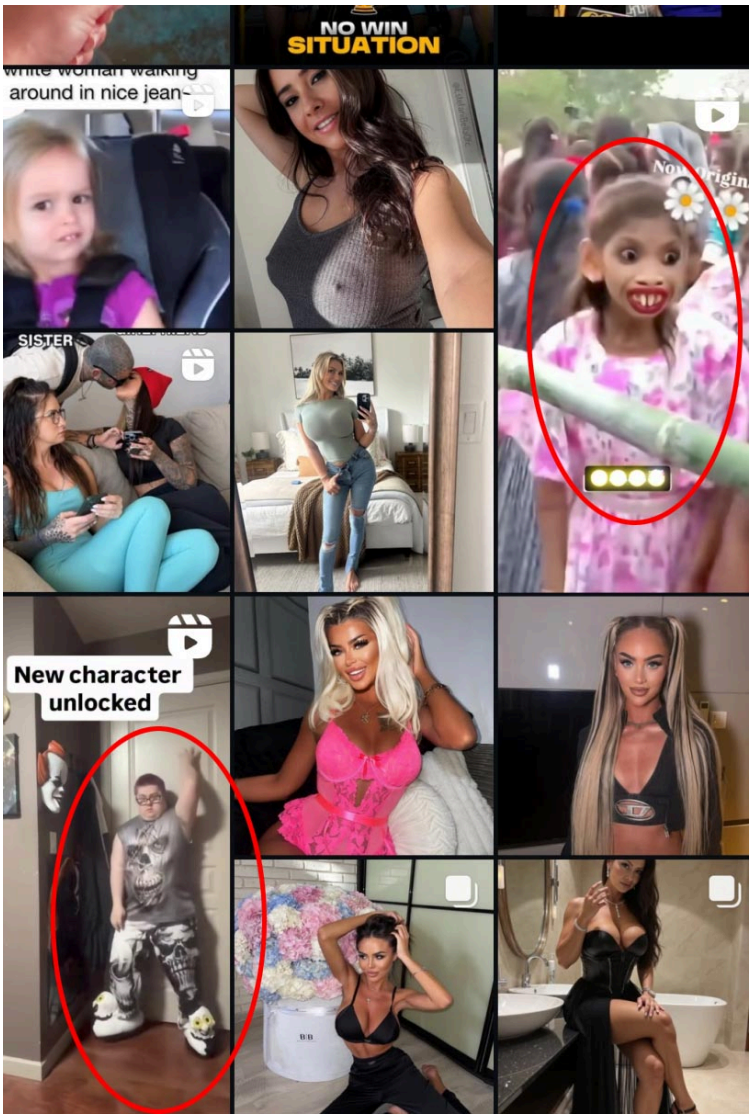
More followed, all within seconds to hours of each other:



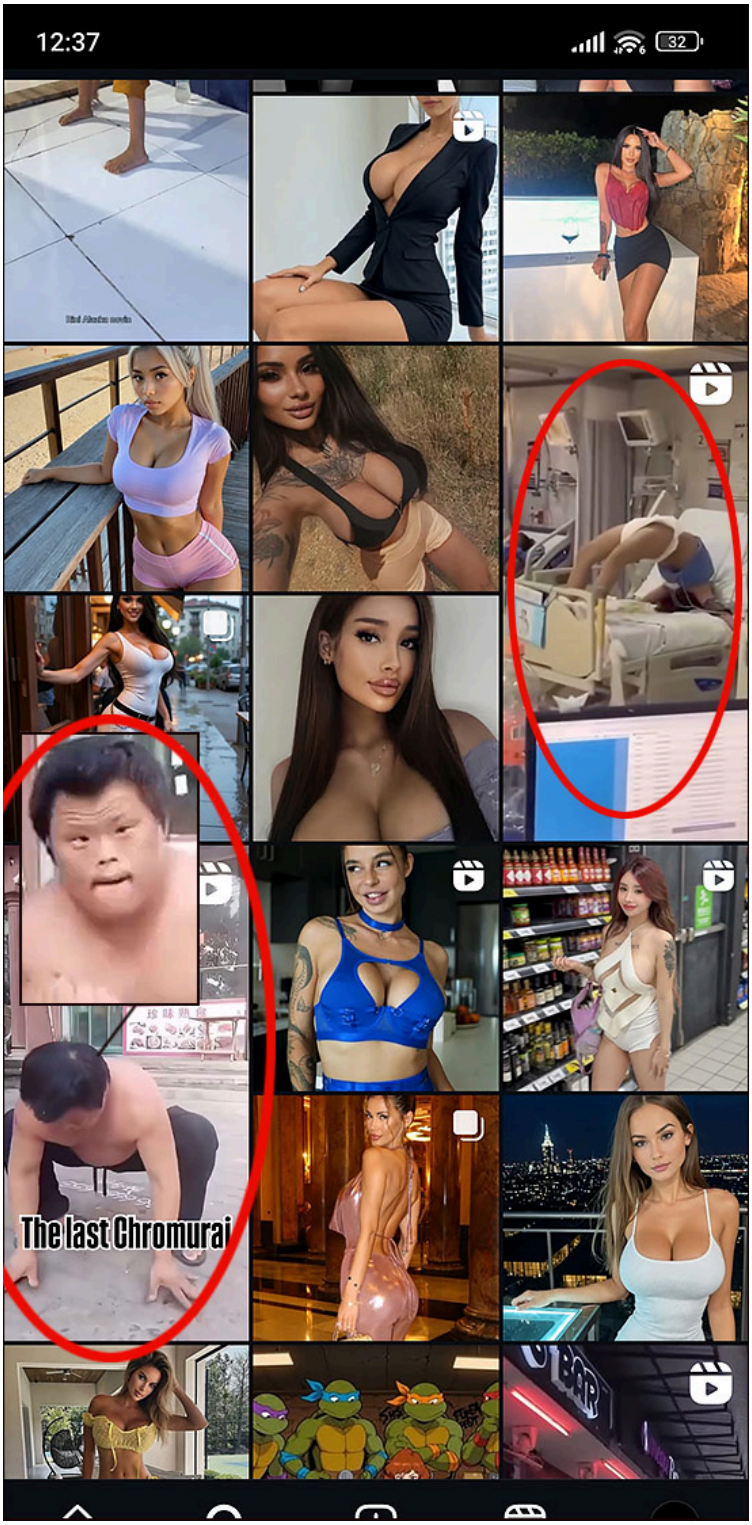
Hours later, for the pictures, for the first time in months, mainly non-AI hot women were non-stop suggested. In contrast, all suggested reels contained deformed, hancicapped and outright demon-looking people:



Still more:



When I went, "This is looking outright demonic", the following suggestion of a classically demonically-possessed girl - 'Exorcist'-style - was shown too:



You tell me what went on here. This suggestion loop only existed for a few hours at most. This was not an Instagram algorithm "quirk". The algorithm clearly was picking videos - the urls likely stored in a specific database or array for "handicaps", "deformities" and apparently "demonic-looking individuals" - and suggesting them one by one. But why? Why does a subsection like this even exist? And why not block politically-incorrect content in which people with down syndrome or made fun of? It's very odd.

FEMINISM

Feminism

Videos involving feminist activism are plenty. There's been an increased focus though on pushing the fringes even within this segment: from heavily overweight lesbians with short purple and green hair to "queen bees" having all kinds of unrealistic financial demands on men.

My views, the science on women, and the funding of feminist groups already are discussed in ISGP's '"Liberal CIA": Feminism and LGBTQ' article. It also is in sections below.

No (white) babies needed: just party and have fun

This was already touched upon in the TikTok article. Certainly by 2023 it had become very fashionable on social media and in the media to tell women that it is perfectly fine to have zero kids. Here are two examples:

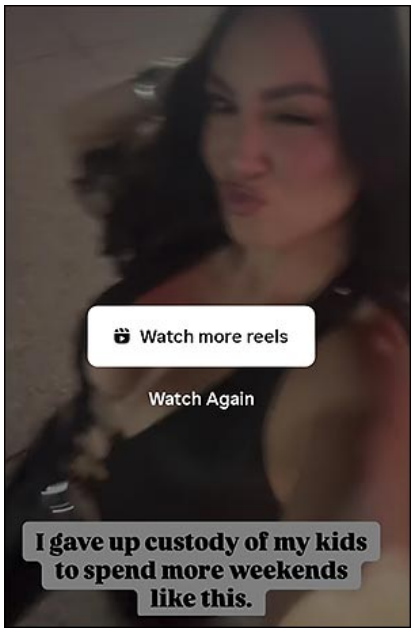
RESPONSIBLE

Ironically, the first feminist on Instagram that I noticed pushing the "no children" concept, in 2024, was a certain Xenia Tchoumi, who just happens to be a repeat Davos invitee. Looking her up again, I see her pushing self-described "counterculture" slogans as, "A man is not a financial plan." It's not a "counterculture" plan; it's an establishment plan.

Don't be fooled by Xenia's smile either. She only started doing that immediately after I joked her having no kids is making her depressed, as she never smiles in any of her videos. She's also the same flirtatious attention seeker as all the non-Davos women she's secretly in touch with, making me believe the right guy could get her pregnant in a few months.

In an update, less than 4 months after this original article was published in October 2025, Xenia predominantly appeared in German-language media for appearing in the Epstein files. Per the released documents, on Dec. 4, 2010 a person referred a then-23-year-old Xenia to already-convicted pedophile Jeffrey Epstein. Both would be attending the "liberal CIA" Sundance Film Festival, scheduled for January 20-30, 2011. Already on December 30, 2010, Epstein referred Xenia too to the patron circle page of Sundance. On January 16, 2011, when Xenia arrived in New York City, she wrote to Epstein, "Pls teach me how to make money," and started referring to him as "mentor."[60]

Also interesting, on January 18, 2011 Epstein wrote to the person who brought Xenia to him that, "[accused pedo] Woody [Allen is] coming for dinner."[61] In the same days that this info came out, it also was revealed that Epstein also was good friends with another accused (serial) pedo, "liberal CIA" asset Noam Chomsky. In any case, the Epstein connection likely has something to do with Xenia later ending up in Instagram's recommendation algorithm.



Going back to the subject at hand, there's a core of truth, of course, that raising children is hard. But if you don't, you'll eventually find yourself sitting around the Christmas tree with your elderly parents alone - and your race dies out. Instagram actually only showed one video in all these months promoting the opposite view of not taking any kids: a woman with 5 children showing off a family dance party, glad she had been pregnant for such a long period in her life. Mostly you just see more short-sighted videos like the ones above and to the right.

Below is another last-minute example. It's probably most worrying to see how only supportive statements have massive upvotes, although the "feminist" Call Her Daddy podcast that the interview took place on probably takes a decent amount of blame. If anything, apart from the pill, which collapsed birth rates in the West; and feminist "education" about women needin ga career, exorbitant house prices are the problem - due to Third World immigration, as well as other costs of living. Raising kids costs money. The higher the house prices, the lower the birth rate.[62] Back in the day, a man could sustain his family by himself. Today that is very unlikely.

I've seen a similar "career over kids" agenda run through the local globalist media outlet Nu.nl, always worried about women working too much part-time [63] and explaining how women who don't want to have kids should not be shamed. [64]

Women are "useless, cheating, money-grubbing whores" - that love aborting babies

This "alt right" position became very prominent on TikTok and certainly by 2024-2025 heavily spilled over to Instagram. The most prominent sources are Andrew Tate, who had a suspected CIA father [65] and is an old protege of CIA-tied conspiracy disinformer Alex Jones; Amrou Fudl / Myron Gaines of the Fresh & Fit Podcast; the Whatever podcast of Brian Atlas, and even more extreme influencers as Zherka.

There's a decent core of truth to the accusations, to be honest. And much of it actually is good dating advice, whether men like to accept that reality or not. Looking at the top 20 wealthiest women on Earth, one Chinese woman apparently made it herself; 18 outright inherited the wealth, and 1, Denise Coates, had the backing of her father's wealth in the founding of a betting site, through which she paid herself a superhefty salary. [66] In the Netherlands, in 2024, the Quote 500 of richest people only counted 10 women. [67] In 2025, the top 100 of Young Selfmade Millionaires in the Netherlands dropped from 6 to 4, after two famous models dropped from the list for reaching the age of 40. [68]

Clearly women are wired a bit differently, and know how to profit pretty shamelessly from a man's business. This behavior still is quite acceptable though, as long as it doesn't go out of hand, especially when women are raising 3, 4, 5 children of the man, as happened traditionally. It's just how the genders of the species are biologically wired.

The woman you marry is not the same woman you divorce.

Divorce proves women are gold diggers ...

Certainly to say that women are "useless" is propaganda to rip the genders apart, destroy the family unit, and prevent (white) babies from being born. A good example is Andrew and Tristan Tate talking about how women always rob men in divorces, while more than a few repliers - who got less likes than the unexperienced "yes-men" - explained they have different experiences. But it is exactly those people and those "other" experiences that the Instagram and TikTok algorithms never show to their userbase.

Instagram and TikTok only push the most extreme antigonist statements:

- Women wanting to see a man's bank account before dating, or expecting $100,000+ annual salaries to even consider dating.
- A (black) woman not committing to a freshly graduated (black) medical student, because he has a lot of debt and thus "isn't financially set yet."
- Statements as, "Every guy should start in jail and have to work their way out," with the host agreeing.
- Women proudly "killing their baby" in front of abortion clinics (this video involved a black woman), or in other ways being very casual about regularly doing abortions or taking "Plan B" pills.
- Statements from women saying that men who "treat me well" are "boring" and "uncomfortable" to be around.
- Women admitting to liking "dominant" men, the counter being that too many women also love making a lot of false rape and sexual harassment charges.

- Men explaining how "all women are master manipulators".
- Men "marrying" AI chatbots and female androids instead of real women.
- Women going for Philippine import brides, because they are more "feminine" and "supportive" than western women.
- Women almost always being the one ending a relationship.
- Women not needing a man anymore, because they have OnlyFans or a career.
- Women not wanting kids and preferring to have fun and freedom.
- Western women not cooking and cleaning, in contrast to Russian women.
- Women admitting they've been cheating on their boyfriends.
- The bodycount videos: women desiring or admitting to have had sex with multiple men per weekend, and hundreds to thousands of men in total.
- Young women going for black guys and general fuckboys, only settling for a "financially stable" "second choice" when they get older.

Asking this teenage girl, who probably lives at home, if she cooks herself: 841,000 likes, but clearly a cherry-picked example.

- Women only wanting men who are 6' or taller. U.S. women might be more obsessed with this, but certainly in Europe it doesn't play much of a role. The face card, status, money and who you are as a person are more important. And I'm saying that as a 200cm / 6'5.5" man (without the usual 1 to 4 inch exaggeration). Women really like the height, but it's just a bonus.
- A "random" example of a cheating woman killing her husband, after him announcing he is going to divorce her for having caught her in the act.
- Etc.

Ultimately, as a man, be prepared to only have sexual and romantic value when you have status, provide for yourself, provide for your family, and solve life's problems. You feel that yourself. And women feel it too. You won't get respect if you don't, no matter the reason.

My views, the science on women, and the funding of feminist groups already are discussed in ISGP's '"Liberal CIA": Feminism and LGBTQ' article.

Body dysmorphia

The promotion of women with extremely large breasts, or those using AI face filters, or are wholly AI-generated, aren't the only thing on Instagram promoting body dysmorphia. The steroid bodies are another. While this aspect wasn't emphasized by the algoritm in 2025, what was, at least for me, were repeat suggestions involving extreme plastic surgery. This did not just involve the face, but also a guy who originally was 171cm adding over 20 centimeters to his height by repeatedly, surgically breaking his legs:

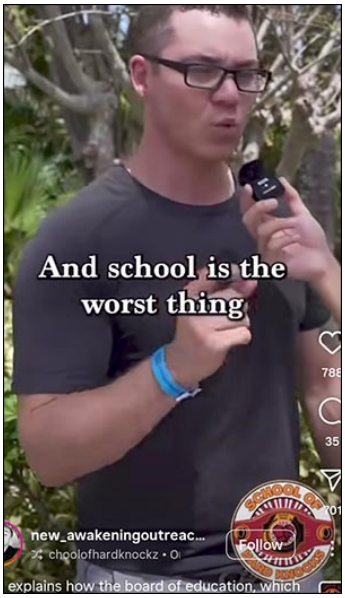
I'm not necessarily saying that anyone shouldn't be doing these surgeries, but pretty much only feeding me (supposedly) natural and some fake cup G+ boobs is ridiculous. Also, I'm wondering why hyper-political platforms as Instagram are putting all this stuff so high into their algorithms. What happened to "fat is beautiful"? That's still a thing. But I guess that too could be listed as the usual perverted idea being promoted - of reversing the truth. Because being fat really is being unhealthy and should not be stimulated.

Then again, for Instagram promoting fat women in their algorithm will certainly result in everybody leaving.

No education needed

Ok, no babies, no marriage. Just be gay, transsexual, pansexual and a pedophile. That's what the Instagram algorithm seems to be saying. What else does it recommend?

Well, over the years I've regularly seen "motivational" talks of influencers that a college education is not needed. In later years this was supplemented with various speeches about how "controlled" our education system is, with references to how the Rockefellers founded and funded America's General Education Board from 1902 on. The video on the left is along these lines.



It's always funny how savvy "random" people can be with regard to the Rockefellers or Rothschilds when it involves the "liberal CIA", "conservative CIA", or conspiracy disinfo agenda. The additional 99% of the story, as discussed on ISGP, always gets ignored.

Not going to college is a tricky road to go. You can, if you A) don't have the brains; B) enjoy physical, construction and engineering-type labor; C) are making big money at a young age; or D) have a strong and specific entrepreneurial drive, and people around you who know how to run business.

For everybody else, if you or your parents have the money, I suggest you do your best from early on in high school to try to find a college or university education to your liking. Get your parents to expose you to a wide variety of things: learning an instrument, practical construction with fixing up the house, practical engineering with fixing scooters, motorcycles, and cars; maybe get you to walk along with a doctor, physiotherapist, lawyer, etc. at a young age; etc. Find what you resonate with. Most kids and most parents are way too passive here.

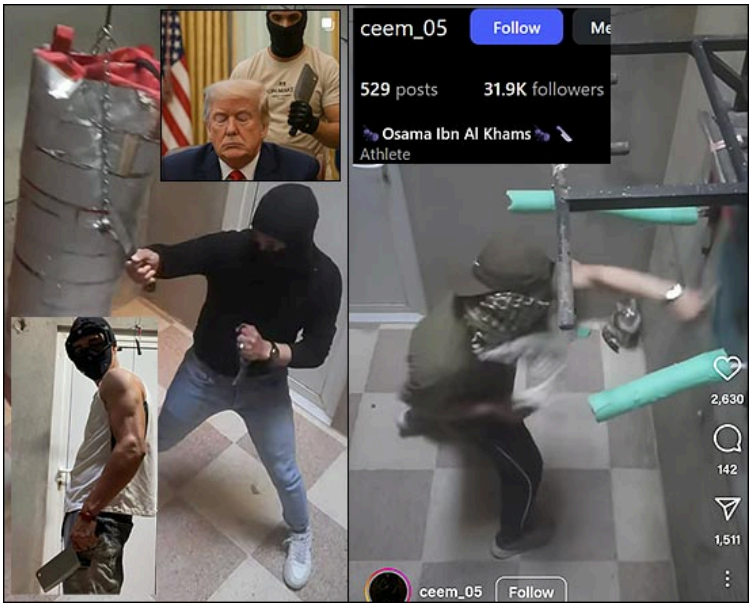
Going to college gives you:

1. 4+ more years away from full-time work with old, fat and burned out adults;
2. a lot of fun with guys and girls your age;
3. a sense of "going places";
4. a sense of (ego-based) self-respect;
5. more lifelong opportunity in the workplace, and a higher chance of landing a leadership position, no matter what profession you pursue.

Terrorist knife-fighting practice - to kill conservative leaders

Twice, in June 2025, a week apart, I was Instagram suggested a terrorist-looking guy practicing knife-fighting on home-made devices. The only other time I've seen this stuff was with black gangbangers in the UK practicing these skills on each other, right out on the street.

Analyzing the two videos for publication here, it turned out that it involved the same room and the same guy. A little more checking revealed the guy to be an "athlete" with the name "Osama", who, on July 21, 2025, made a post openly fantasizing about killing Donald Trump with a butcher's axe:



On TikTok, Osama's handle is @oussamathug20. As of August 3, 2025 "Oussama" follows 6 people: 5 Arabs and a white woman's account @viviana_xiv. @viviana_xiv's main account is @vivianalesandra, through which it can be seen she has an obsession with breeding pitbulls and rottweilers for dogfighting. She also follows back "Oussama".

Followers of "Oussama" mainly include people from the Muslim world, with names as @jihad.da; or death- and Satan-obsessed accounts as @rottenworldh4h4 or - one of the few female accounts - missshots777.

Promoting accounts likes this is a good excuse for U.S. government admninistrations hiring companies as Palantir to AI-dragnet-snoop the entire internet. Thinking of it, Palantir's Peter Thiel was the first investor in Facebook... which bought Instagram in 2012...

Kill yourself

First I'm always surprised how often extremely dangerous parkour stunts by youths are shown, at the expense of all more regular sports (unless you specifially search for these other sports): teenagers jumping from five story buildings to slide down street light poles; or jumping from and to tiny ledges 7, 8, or more stories up. A lot of the videos that you see along these lines are pretty much suicidal. Keep doing these stunts and you won't escape unharmed, sooner rather than later. And these videos may well inspire your own eternally bored teenage kids to try it out as well.

It's fun to watch, as long as all goes well. But should we be watching this? And why does Instagram want to inspire youths around the world to kill and paralyze themselves in this largely pointless manner? If kids want to do, they do it. But maybe these videos should only be accessible when specifically searching for it...

Another noteworthy "random" suggestion was a Dutch evening news program about an obese white wussy man whining that he has never given permission to be born - and apparently is depressed, but doesn't have the courage to kill himself.

Personally I interpret the latter as yet another attempt to emasculate white men, get white couples to stop making babies, and hopefully just kill themselves en masse. It also serves as useful debate-filler for TV to pretend that "democratic debate" is going on.

For the rest, who says that he didn't give permission to be born? We don't know what happens before or after birth with any certainty. Certainly a Buddhist or Daoist would at the very least suspect you fully gave permission to yourself to be born.

AI-faked celebrity and war videos

In ISGP's oversight 'World History in Timelines', under 'high-tech', I note that it was in July 2023 for the first time that I couldn't tell anymore sometimes if a video was AI-generated or not, with others having similar problems. This remained roughly at the same level for me throughout 2024. However, when I got back to Instagram in May 2025, after leaving in December 2024, a lot of things were different. All of sudden:

- there are fake AI videos in my feed of celebrities that you literally can only still identify as such because of the ridiculous statements coming out of their mouths.
- countless videos emerge of missile impacts from the Iran-Israel War of June 2025 that are completely AI-generated, and sometimes hard to identify as such.
- nature videos of animals that have been AI-generated or "adapted";
- there are comments of people all over complaining that AI should be banned, because it scares them to death.

Good old conspiracy disinfo

- David Icke: The lizard man and no-planer, who nevertheless shared his conspiracy disinformation with good basic info on some globalist groups early on in his career in the late 1990s.
- Graham Hancock: Spread disinformation for decades that the Great Pyramid of Giza is 10,500 years old (instead of 4,500 years old) and was built by ancient aliens as part of Atlantis, and that his "bet would be that the Ark of the Covenant is ... a piece of high technology" to lift the multi-ton pyramid stones. [69] Apart from the more disinfo-riddled Coast to Coast AM, the Joe Rogan Experience podcast has been platforming Hancock since the early 2010s, and with that largely being responsible for keeping Hancock visible.
- Alex Jones: Same as David Icke, minus the lizards. Hails from a CIA-tied family.
- Danny Jones: Host of the Koncrete podcast, which has invited anyone from high-level "liberal CIA" CIA covert operations officer John Kiriakou to a gaggle of conspiracy disinformers.
- Patrick Ben David: Deals not only with a lot of "alt right" people on his podcast, but also with UFO disinformers as Steven Greer and flat earth and "gravity ain't real" disinformers as Bryce Mitchell.

- Sean Mike Kelly: Podcast with 12 million followers on Instagram anno 2025. It promotes a lot of Muslim conversion videos and conspiracy disinformation. A first TikTok check of Sean Mike Kelly podcast clips reveals the one with Elizabeth April, going: "They did indeed set up a ... Hollywood studio to film this fake Moon landing. And we really did go to the Moon, but when we went there we were visited by offworld visitors. And they said... "You're not allowed to be here." ... Oh, I have [...] remote-viewed [that]. ... When I was in the Antarctic base and I was going through the hallways I could feel like the cool dampness of the air. What they were doing over there was pretty horrific. Essentially what I saw was [human] experimentation to make some sort of super-soldier. [70] In other words: Coast to Coast AM all over again.
- Trueman Show: Dutch conspiracy disinformation podcast ran by a Jorn Luka, who got into conspiracy theory after his dance business was ruined by the Corona pandemic. Early on for his Trueman Show he interviewed David Icke, who was still talking about reptilians. [71]

Various other guests spoke out against things as vaccinations, the Freemasons, and the Rothschilds, or promoted disinformation as 9/11-no-plane theories [72], a second shooter at the Pim Fortuyn assassination site [73]; chemtrails [74] and Pizzagate. [75]. For more details and sources see the Trueman Show in ISGP's list of conspiracy disinformation sites.

- Michael Franzese: Former mafia boss, who was portrayed in the film 'Goodfellas' (1990). Superficially claimed JFK must have been assassinated by the mob on behalf of the CIA - which is an old claim and not productive with (verifiable) personal details. [76] He also stated that Jeffrey Epstein could not have committed suicide [77] - something the entire disinformation-riddled alt right claims, but something which ISGP has always disagreed with.

In contrast to the endless disinformation, I'm not sure if I ever have seen a genuine conspiracy theory being pushed on Instagram or TikTok. While I have seen Alex Jones and an antifa girl rant about "the globalists", I have never even heard the CFR, Bilderberg, or Trilateral Commission being mentioned. Even Davos I've only seen as part of the channel of Xenia Tchoumi - a "feminist" Davos visitor. Apart from well-known faces, generally I only see conspiracy theories like the following:

1. "Rothschilds secret Antarctica ownership."
2. "Reptilians dirty little secret."
3. "Autism is caused by vaccines."
4. "Are these brands demonic? ... Cerebras [which sounds like Cerberes, etc.]"
5. "Gravity ain't real!"
6. "The Earth don't move... It's flat."

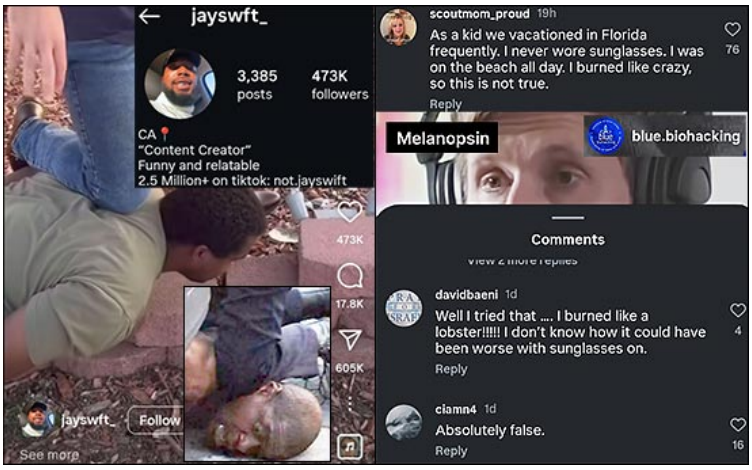
That's just a small part of what I've seen in the past, but never bothered backing up. Basically everything listed by ISGP as disinformation already many years ago, is exactly what the Instagram algorithm is promoting, as is the case with TikTok.

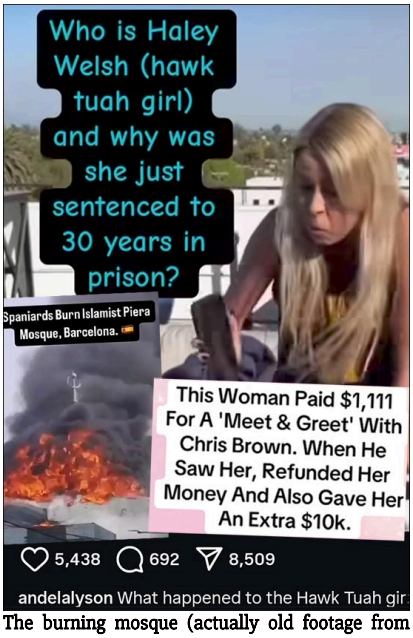
In addition, there's typical conspiracy disinformation and fake mainstream news. But also a number of suggestions popped up that are a little in-between. Below are examples of that. On the left a channel with 2.5 million Tiktok followers and over 800,000 followers on Instagram. It promoted the idea that George Floyd died from a drug overdose. Drugs definitely played a role, but here it's based on a false argument, namely by putting the police officer's knee in the wrong place.



On the right a channel named "blue.biohacking" is pushing a story that came by twice, explaining how you only get sunburned when you put on sunglasses. As can be seen, a lot of people with experience already testified that this is fake news - yet it kept being promoted by Instagram. But what makes this an "in-between" suggestion, is because it's a clip from the "liberal CIA" and conspiracy disinformation-tied Konkrete podcast, which spreads a lot of disinformation on ancient aliens as well.

Invented news – per the desires of Google and Davos?

It gets worse. Some time after coming back to Instagram in 2025, my Instagram feed regularly featured stories that were completely made up, or very much distorted, and this by channels dedicated to doing this. Why are these channels allowed to exist? Why are they in my feed?



Who is Haley Welsh (hawk tuah girl) and why was she just sentenced to 30 years in prison?

5,438 692 8,509
andelalyson What happened to the Hawk Tuah gir

The burning mosque (actually old footage from Indonesia) and the Chris Brown story are not my own screenshots. I couldn't find my own screenshots anymore, so looked them up online.

Also, why were all these fake suggestions only made in a period of a couple of days in July 2025? Clearly the algorithm recognized them as fake news stories, and began promoting them nevertheless - because after these couple of days there were no more issues. However, in all cases only the comment sections or a skeptic Google search made it clear these news reports were fake.

This phenomenon is even more destructive than some of the AI fakery, as now even seemingly ordinary news headlines that you are being fed regularly are completely bogus. I went from literally NEVER having to fact-check a story, to having to do that ALL THE TIME when sliding through Instagram. Possibly it's the most destructive thing I've ever experienced. It's mentally exhausting when you literally can't trust ANYTHING anymore and EVERYTHING needs to be double and triple-checked. This used to be limited to conspiracy theory, but now it is at risk of being everywhere.

Possibly the first Instagram-suggested fake news story I looked up online. Quickly I noticed that a variety of versions of this fake news story have been circulating. I couldn't find my personal screenshot again in this case either, so this screenshot comes from the internet.

The immediate question that comes up is: who benefits? Certainly not Instagram. Invented news is by far the number reason for me to immediately run away from the platform all together - and I'm not the only user who suggested that, looking at the comments. So who benefits? Well:

1. The entire network of "liberal CIA"-funded "fact-checking" sites that mainly emerged from 2015 on due to all the blatant lies told by "conservative CIA" presidential candidate Donald Trump. But NOW, they FINALLY have a real purpose, day in, day out.
2. All the mainstream "authoritative" news, government and science sites artificially boosted by Google from April 2017 on.
3. Globalist-type politicians and businessmen allied with CFR, Bilderberg, Trilateral and Davos.

As for an example of the latter case, certainly former Obama secretary of state John Kerry, a person from a family with major globalist ties, has been eerily vindicated when during a September 2024 Davos meeting he essentially begged for a "truth arbiter":

> "If people only go to one source, and the source they go to is sick, and has an agenda, and they're putting out disinformation, our First Amendment [i.e. freedom of speech] stands as a major block to the ability to just hammer it out of existence. ... Social media is just growing and growing. ... Democracies around the world now are struggling with the absence of a sort of truth arbiter, and there's no one who defines what facts really are. [So] it's really hard to govern today. ... People go and self-select where they go for their news, for their information. And then you get into a vicious cycle..."[78]

Seems to me social media algorithms of Instagram and TikTok have deliberately been engineered not just for propaganda and disinformation, but also as the ultimate excuse to ban all "non-authoritative" means of obtaining information that has not been sifted by "truth arbiter".

Whites converting to Islam

Feed suggestions along this kind involve anything from white women moving to Islamic countries for marriage, to white people - such as Andrew Tate - situated in western countries converting to Islam, to white people being forced to adapt to Islamic colleagues:

Good (black) versus bad (white) imperialism

The "liberal CIA" / Soros propaganda of white people being "racist colonialists", having to "pay reparations", and tear down any custom or statue tied to racism or colonialism, has been somewhat "normal" since the 2010s. Of course, also on social media you continually see suggestions along these lines. The idea is to blame ordinary white people for the psychopathic actions of their historic kings and corporate bosses, while leaving out plenty of balancing details - all in an effort to artifically shift power (and thus white women) from white to black.

It can get pretty shameless, such as videos of black people not only demanding up to $1 million per person in reparations, but also that white people should be turned into slaves and "endure what black people have endured. That's possible, of course, because, as Reddit put it, for example (and as you hear in plenty of social media videos as well), "the rule on hate protects [minority] groups [but] does not protect groups of people who are in the majority [i.e., white people]." [79] A few visual examples from Instagram:

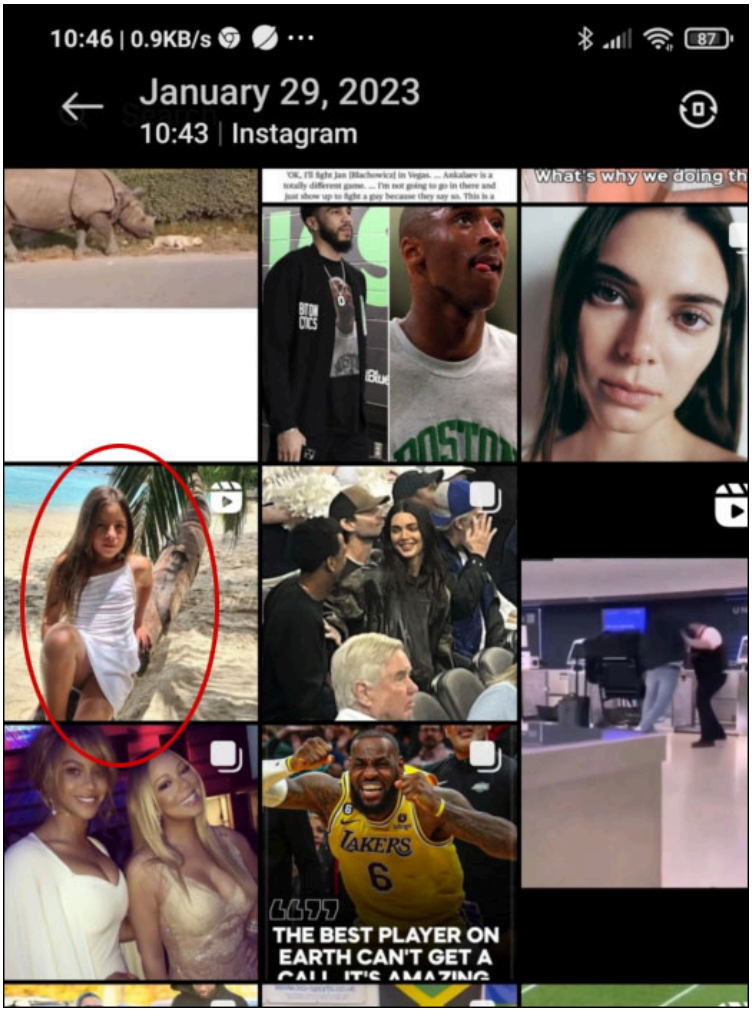
On the other hand, amidst all the antifa, pro-Arab, pro-Hamas propaganda (even more consistently on TikTok), I couldn't help but notice a handful of suggestions in the aftermath of the June 2025 Israel-Iran War, and the Yemini Houthies continuing to fire missiles at ships and Israel, that a few suggestions popped up about the "Omani empire" (Oman lies next to Yemen) and of black Muslim conquerors. I did not consistently back up these suggestions, but I found back two of them:

There was no hint here of this being "bad" or "colonialist". It seemed more to inspire the Third World into continuing to try to conquer Israel and the West.

Endless black people

Let's reproduce the last screenshot from the LGBTQ-Pedo section:



This screenshot dates to early 2023. Similar to all the years prior, the feed at that point was completely dominated by black people:

1. black people committing violence (the picture in the lower-right is of a black person knocking out a security guard);
2. black basketballers;
3. black singers;
4. and (white) celebrities predominantly dating black people.

All this was endlessly suggested while I had zero interest in basketball, black violence, the black singers in question, or seeing black people in general...

I don't know today, but certainly in 2022-2024, you also saw black people in at least two-thirds of all TikTok commercials. In Instagram anno 2025 commercials sometimes show up as well. Whenever they are fully white - as with all commercials - it's actually a shock and feels like a "racist" rebellion against what "should be the norm".

Endless interracial dating propaganda: "snowbunnies" and "Eurafrica"

The state of propaganda trolling on Instagram and TikTok anno 2025. Smile or you are gonna go to prison - increasingly in EU countries.

ISGP's 2023 TikTok article has been quite prophetic. The pushing of famous black people on Instagram has always been exhorbitant, but by 2025 the "get mixed babies" propaganda algorithm was running at full tilt, to the point much of it comes as across as blatantly trolling white people. On Instagram, this type of propaganda by far is most prominent. Some examples from 150+ screenshots:

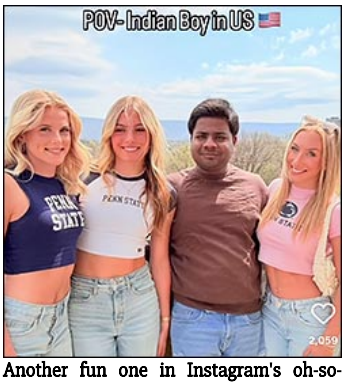
A number of videos seem to have been produced and picked to antagonize white men, such as white girls and black guys making faces after having had sex. At the same time it is clear that whatever propaganda goes to get people to interracially have babies, goes. For example, above you see a black woman with a white guy, with the caption: "You look happier." "Thank you, I stopped dating black men." I noticed a number of these suggestions, always with black women preying on white men, not infrequently for their money. So if it suits the globalist agenda, as is the case with black woman-white male relationships, black men are ridiculed and marginalized just the same as white men, or white women:

1. To drive white women into the arms of black and Arab men, white men are being bullied with claims of being geeky, racist weaklings.
2. To drive black women into the arms of white men, black men are being painted as violent deadbeats.



Another fun one in Instagram's oh-so-"random" suggestions. This Indian kid actually is an influencer doing interviews with students at Penn State.

The term "snowbunny", which seems to be everywhere anno 2025 on Instagram, is super-racist. It would be similar to white guys saying they're going to fuck their favorite "pet monkey". And yet, only the former is totally acceptable and promoted on Instagram. It's no different than Dutch media promoting anti-white racist terms as "tata" (potato - also on Instagram in the form of "tata rappers"), "cheese heads" and more terms along these lines, all the while making excuses that these terms aren't racist, because, you see, "Dutch people eat these products..."

It goes more extreme all the time. Anno 2025 we've landed at white women bowing down and kissing the hands of their "black kings". Although maybe that's not a far cry from a video being spread during the 2020 George Floyd Black Lives Matter protests of white people bowing down to black people to beg for forgiveness over slavery.

More examples, including interracial lesbian dating, interracial down syndrome dating, April fools "jokes" about greeting white men (instead of the usual black men only), and possibly excerpts from interracial porn videos:

As a side note, also interesting is the promotion on Instagram and the regular news of "Tinder's most swiped right man". He's black guy with a 7.5-8 in looks, who, looking at various pictures, only seems to have been dating white women. In an interview with the Manchester Evening News, "Mr. Right" went into how his "up to £120 ... service includes photo editing to 'subtly tweak' pictures and ChatGPT and AI to write attractive dating profiles and messages - but he insists this is "not cheating"."[80] It is cheating that any idiot could do. Somehow it is hard to get black people away from the various stereotypes that exist about them. Yet women will chase anything hyped up by the media.

White women afraid to say they're into "white guys"

It is a fact that this author manually counted that hot white girls in Rotterdam, the Netherlands, can be seen dating blacks and Arabs 46x more often than vice versa: a hot white guy dating a black or Arab girl. So, there clearly is a massive attraction (and-or street-stalking)-discrepancy between the white genders with regard to Third World dating.

Still, it seems clear that on TikTok and Instagram, one of the reasons that so many white women are proudly yelling that they like dating black guys more than white guys, is because they are afraid to say the opposite. Because the next question generally is, "Why?" If you admit to the "why's" with a white guy - better behaved, smarter, more creative, better financial outlooks, you don't think immigrant guys belong here, etc. - you automatically become a "racist", potentially in front of the entire world. In contrast, any compliment you give a black guy will be applauded by all the online and offline antifa trolls, media, justice and everything else part of the establishment. It's safer to admit you like black. Much safer.

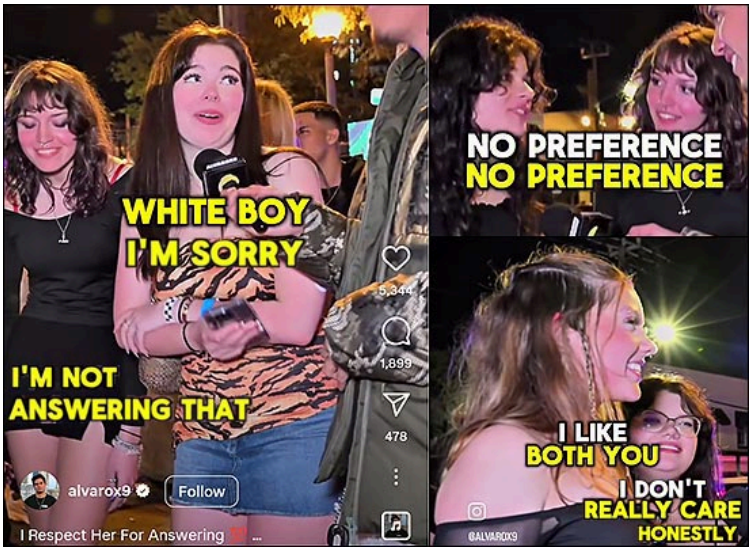
As it should be clear by now that Instagram and TikTok suggestions are selected to be as controversial and divisive and "fun" as possible, it also makes sense that the vasty majority of black-white-preference clips are disproportionally geared towards white girls scandalously expressing their love of black men. Despite that, sometimes the algorithm, or the people manually making video selections, or influencers (another word for "propagandists"), screw up, and they show people clips as the one below:



In the above clip, the first girl accidentally says she prefers white boys, and quickly starts apologizing for it - because she knows that's the "racist" answer. Quickly all her friends adapt: "I'm not answering that! ... No preference." The third girl: "No preference." The fourth: "I don't really care, honestly." And the fifth: "I like both." Safe, safe, safe, safe. Very smart.

This video represents a screw up. And I've seen two or three other such "screw ups": of white girls being uncomfortable to admit to prefer "white guys", and apologizing for it. At the time though, I didn't think these video clips were interesting enough to screenshot. Why would they be? It's totally normal, right? Well, after you've seen 200 videos of white girls seemingly still only looking to get banged by black guys, you're brain gets the message and goes: 'Wait, danger, I'm going to be the racist rebel here if I ever admit to liking white guys... I could end up getting beaten up, or throw away my career. And I seem to be in the minority anyway.' The "normal" all of a sudden becomes dangerous and "abnormal".

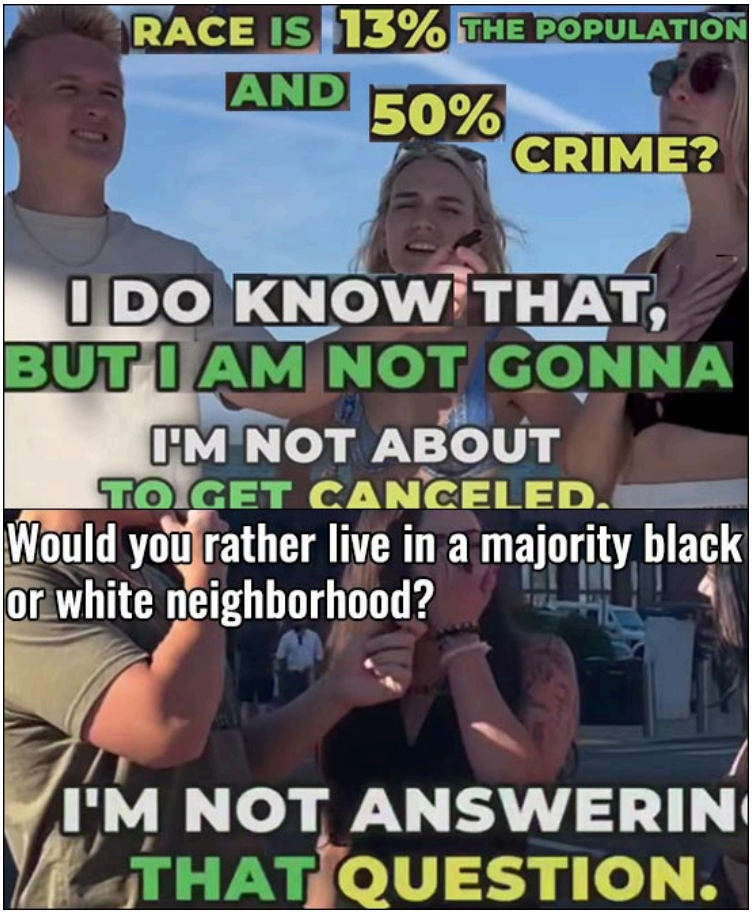
So yeah, I personally suspect a lot of clips of white girls preferring white guys, or those keeping in the middle, are deleted and never uploaded. Most popular influencers likely realize that these type of balanced videos will not get picked up by the algorithm, and if these "unwanted" uploads happen too often, will lead to secret ranking penalties to their channel. It's the same as TikTok for years forcing content creators to include mixed race peers into their videos to get a boost from the algorithm. In the TikTok article I labeled it "catering to the algorithm".

Whites in constant FEAR of being "canceled" over any anti-black remarks

To continue a bit with the political fear of liking white boys over black ones, you can also see that fear in just about the only channel that I've ran into continually asking politically incorrect questions (unfortunately quickly moving into Nazi territory): @hermesdiditagain. It comes down to a fascinating psychological experiment, and very much gets the same result as asking Russians whether they agree or disagree with Putin's war in Ukraine:

1. They refuse to comment.
2. They come up with any excuse to not say the obvious.
3. And the most jarring of all: they hold some politically correct speech.

Here are just some of the examples of women in particular just being deathly afraid to agree to even the most basic of criticism and statistical facts against black people:



RACE IS 13% THE POPULATION

I DO KNOW THAT,
BUT I AM NOT GONNA

In the top video here, the first answer, with a big smile, is "no preferences". When pressed, one of the girls says with a big not-serious smile "black".

More:

More, the word "black" isn't mentioned:

More:

Another question of Hermes I ran into was: "If you had a time machine, would you rather save George Floyd or kill Hitler?" Answer of the woman (with the other silent): "Uh, I'm not going there. I can't [choose between those]."

The white fear, especially among women, sits deep.

It's quite possible that Hermes selects these type of responses for upload. Or the political correctness is an American college thing. At least over here in the Netherlands, quite a few people are willing to criticize Third World immigration on camera, despite the fact that these days you can all too easily be prosecuted for saying the wrong words. While the mainstream media censors criticism, on alt right outlets as PowNed you still see this criticism very often.

Turning white men "cuck" - with black stallions

As my Instagram swiping continued throughout June and July 2025, various suggestions started popping up of white men wanting to watch while their white girlfriends and wives are being fucked by black men. And not just any white men. No, a "tough" white biker daddy, and a very successful white man:

I.e., white men are increasingly being portrayed as submissive cucks to "black stallions":

White replacement due to cultural submission

Plenty of Instagram suggestions too of white people going to Africa or the Middle East - sometimes for marriage or as apparent sex toys - and "integrating" into these less evolved societies. Or alternately taking over "gangsta customs" of blacks and Arabs in the West, adopting their slang, or otherwise doing their best to "fit in" with black and Arab migrants:

White people starting to talk like black and Arab immigrants - either with slang or accent - probably is the main thing I've encountered in the streets. Unlike the video screenshot of 'Wanneer je als enige Nederlander bent opgegroeid met buitenlanders' ('When you are the only Dutch person who grew up with foreigners'), often it's still subtle, but definitely audible.

Black and Arab influencers infiltrating "racist" Poland, East Block, and Russia

One of many things I wonder is why people don't immediately notice the propagandist aspect of TikTok and Instagram influencers moving into "still racist" East Block countries and directly or indirectly "psychologically opening up" these countries to EU-planned Third World immigration:

European Women LOVE Black men
What russian women Think about dating Foreigners
Maybe foreigners more confident and handsome

In July 2025, top social media star IShowSpeed was paid 90,000 euros to be flown into Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia [81], being hailed at the airport by hundreds of lilly-white screaming young teenage fans, as well as the economics ministers of Latvia and Lithuania. In Latvia, Speed came off the plane shirtless, was escorted downtown by economics minister Viktors Valainis, who is tied into the Davos network [82]; where he, in the presence of former Latvian president Raimonds Vejonis [83], did a somewhat controversial "backflip at the Freedom Monument" [84] - because blackflips, sprints, little dances, trolling people a bit, and giving out "cool" handshakes is basically all he is famous for. It's pretty much fame for the sake of being famous, for which Paris Hilton and the Kardashians once were so widely criticized back in the 2000s and 2010s. The Freedom Monument was erected to commemorate Latvia's 1918-1920 war of independence from the Soviet Union. Now they're celebrating the opening of the gates -in an unlimited fashion - towards African migrants.

In Estonia, Speed was personally welcomed by prime minister Kristen Michal, who days before was at a discussion with top globalists as Carl Bildt - a decades-long Wallenberg agent - and billionaire oligarch Victor Pinchuk at a YES Forum-tied meeting [85], Yalta European Strategy (YES) essentially being a miniature East European Bilderberg meeting. Speed's visit to Estonia was part of a social media blitz through "Croatia, Slovenia, Serbia, Bosnia, Greece, Turkey, Spain, Finland, Estonia, Lithuania, Poland, Slovakia, and France." [86] Earlier Speed had also been welcomed in China and Saudi Arabia.

Ironically, Speed's visits to places as China and Saudi Arabia were labeled as propaganda, with even the Washington Post asking questions along these lines, because in Speed's videos these countries always were portrayed in "ways they wanted, rather than reckoning with their more complicated reality." [87]

The more "complicated reality" here, in the suspicion of this author, is that Speed's rise and videos being pushed by Instagram and TikTok's secret algorithms predominantly are some of the initial steps in replacing high IQ races with the low IQ black race in East Europe. Speed might well just be doing his own thing, but the attention in the social media algorithms demonstrate his overseas visits are extremely well-liked by the owners of these platforms. And they are little more than a hype: a bunch of people dancing and cheering a black guy without any significant achievements - but one who does hate all Jews with a passion...

Black and Arab influencers infiltrating China, Japan, Korea

I Show Speed hasn't been the only black social media influencer to visit China. Quite a few videos appeared in the feed of this author showing other black people visiting China, Japan and Korea as well. The exact same videos were appearing on TikTok. At least on Instagram, a surprising amount of suggestions came from dedicated interracial dating pages.

Both ironically and bizarrely, other pushed videos show black people misbehaving in public transport of Japan: jumping around, harassing women, or refusing to stop talking on the phone loudly - huge no-no's in polite Japan:

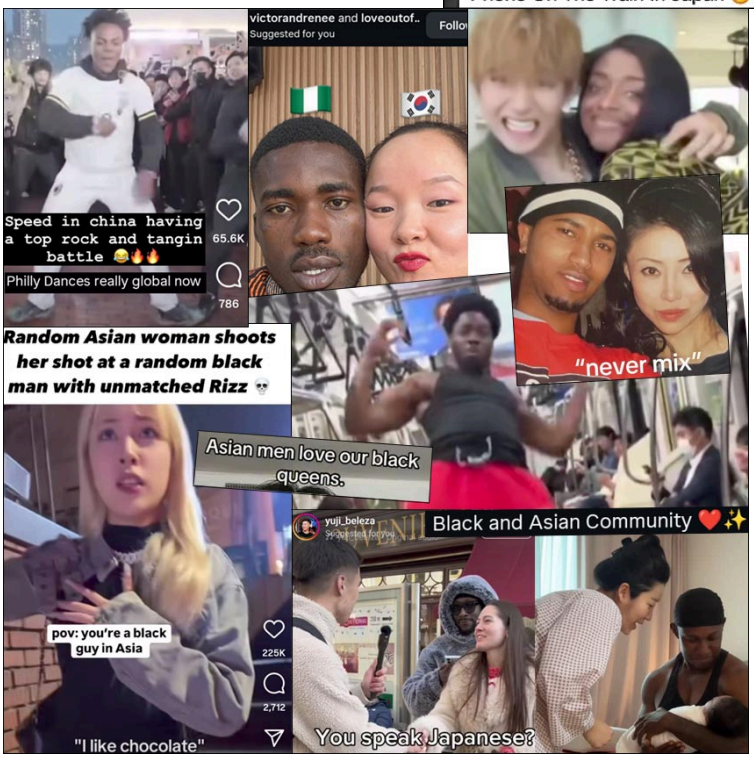
Man Refuses To Silence His Phone On The Train In Japan



As it turns out, and as meanwhile added to the TikTok article, the reason these black people are in Japan in the first place, is because globalist-allied governments have been importing black African workers into the country to combat labor shortages. In other words, together the suggested videos basically tell these countries what appears to be in store for them: forced cultural and genetic destruction, similar to the West. With all the same tactics.

Keep in mind, Japan has been a founding member of David Rockefeller's Trilateral Commission since 1973, while China has been part of Davos since 1979, and has countless ties of its own with the globalist superclass. China also allows western companies and politicians to keep running the ruse that TikTok is (fully) "China-controlled", while censoring ISGP heavier than anti-China conservative disinformers as Alex Jones and Jeff Rense. Who knows what kind of politics are being run from behind the scenes, also in these Far East countries.

Instagram: never failing to promote an aberration.

Bullying whites: too well-behaved, "never built a civilization", "the most violent..."

In previous sections we've already gotten the impression that white people are being ridiculed and trolled as they are being replaced as a race. This is something that we can discuss as a wholly separate aspect of Instagram (and TikTok). Fact is, more than a few suggestions of the algorithm make it clear that black people are allowed to bully white people. The good news? The arguments never make any sense, revealing just how desperate the globalist movement is at finding arguments to undermine the self-esteem of the white race:

DO YOU THINK THAT WHITE PEOPLE SHOULD ABLE TO ADOPT BLACK

1. Ridiculing that polite white Finnish people may not be the most expressive individuals at parties.
2. White people hiking in nature and politely greeting each other needs to be ridiculed by blacks.

3. Alternately, white people need to stop being racist of blacks hiking in nature and spending time with their kids on a boat on the water... This is a good example of how the globalist movement operates: it attack you from the left, right, from above, from below - from whatever angle it can. There has to be no logic or consistency in the attacks.
4. An older white man getting publicly "humilated" by a cocky, threatening, athletic African guy tapping his glasses. A longer version of the video shows that the older white man tried to address the behavior of the African ("Why are you disserving everyone?"), who was standing topless at some pier filled with white people, and who most likely was behaving... in the way they usually do.
5. A white woman - with a superheavily pockmarked face behind the make up - with black kids going: "Hey white men! ... April fools!!!" Why? Because in all other videos she goes, "Hey black men! ... Time to get you a snowbunny!" And things along those lines.
6. A black girl tossing about manipulated "statistics" that "white people are the most violent and oppressive." Black crime statistics all around the world say the complete opposite.
7. A Somali-looking girl making the "joke": "Sunburns are nature's way of letting white people know that you guys are immigrants too. The sun's like, "Hey go back to where you came from.""
8. A (homosexual, activist) man going: "I'm white. I'm fine being a white minority. ... We finally have some food that is flavored."
9. Dutch state TV NPO having interviews with homosexual Arabs that have adapted to Dutch culture explaining that sometimes they are being accused of having been "verkaasd" ("turned cheese", as in cheeseheads). This type of ridicule of whites has been openly embraced by Dutch media outlets.
10. A black professor named James Small, going, "Europeans never built a civilization. Show me a European civilization." Not even necessary to debunk.
11. A top comment somewhere going: "[Whites] are statistically likely to be pedophiles and Asian women look the most like children, that's [why whites are attracted to Asians.]" That statistic is questionable on a "per 100,000"-basis, especially when you also look at the 10-20-30x overrepresention of Arabs and blacks in particular when it comes to violent street crime, including gang rape and street rape. Of course, the latter-type of statistics always have been withheld from the algorithm, with people mentioning these statistics quickly getting warned and banned, at least in the pre-2025 era.

Black people "the Earth"; whites "genetic drift" and "not the solution"

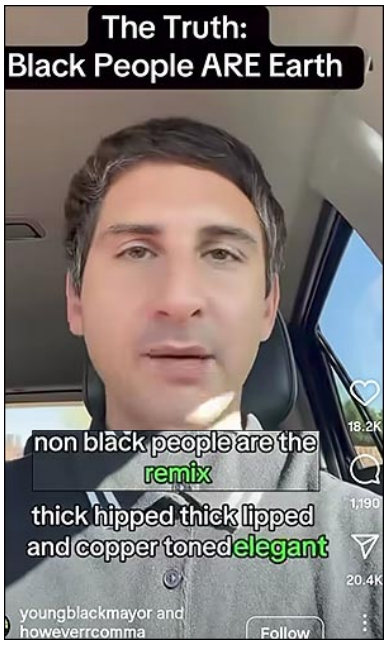
It's interesting. In between Hitler's 1925 book 'Mein Kampf' and the early 2020s, "white replacement" wasn't talked about anywhere, except maybe in some Black Flag punk songs of the late 1970s and early 1980s. Now that it is becoming an undeniable agenda in the 2020s, likely in no small part due to 2016 work of ISGP having been moderately ported to TikTok and Instagram, "white replacement" all of a sudden starts being mentioned. But whenever it is brought up, it is either by a Jew-hater, or even more tellingly, the argument in favor of it makes no rational or moral sense. A lot of these examples already were mentioned above. Such as the video below:

The amount of gays pushing white replacement gets a little disconcerting, to the point that maybe gays - similar to feminists, trannies and greens - should be considered a national security threat, at least as long as "liberal CIA" forcibly keeps linking all these parallel movements to pro-Third Woirld immigration activism.

This video involves a man standing in front of a perfectly-maintained white house, green garden and picket fence, explaining that he's "fine being a white minority", because "we'll finally have some food that is highly seasoned."[88] In no small part due to the addition of fun fair music, the whole clip comes across as sneering disinformation by someone possessed by a demon. Ironically, the poster's profile picture is of a burning demon and had the intent of showing the person in the video is "a Jew". But clearly the opposing anti-white and anti-Jewish messages being sent clearly were perfect for an Instagram suggestion. The original poster purports to be a comedian, has 100,000 followers on TikTok, and is a pride-supporting homosexual in some kind of interracial relationship. It honestly isn't clear what his nationality is. He could have some Balkan, Turkish, Armenian, Lebanese, or Jewish descent. But it certainly is a propaganda video favored by the algorithms of TikTok and Instagram.

The point still remains: really? If "seasoned food" - alongside the nonsensical "jokes", lies and ridicules of the previous section - is the best argument you can come up with to do away with white people, then white people must be pretty awesome.

There have been a few additional arguments though. Most notably that white people need to be punished for having been colonialist. Or: their businesses have polluted the Earth. These arguments too make little sense, but that's the case that is being made in a suggested Instagram video clip below. Once again it involves a gay-acting white guy:



"Alright racists, let's talk about the truth. There is so much discourse lately about who is Native and who is Indigenous... What everyone needs to understand is that Black people are the earth. Black people are the only unmutated humanity. They told you humans came from Africa like it was a migration story. But that's not the truth. The truth is, Africa is the first face of the earth, and Blackness is the source of all biology.

"Everyone else? Genetic drift. Mutational echo. Survival glitches adapted to ice and exile.

"Let's talk origins. The Black woman is the womb of the world. Forget the Eve in the Garden [of Eden] story. That was a stolen metaphor. The real Eve lives in the woman's mitochondria. And not just any woman. Melanin-rich, thick-hipped, thick-lipped, and copper-toned. Elegant, poised, literally perfect, planet-rooted Black women. White women don't carry the full ancestral genome. Asian, Mexican, and Native women only carry fragments. Black women carry the total code. She doesn't reproduce diversity. She births the whole species.

"When small African offshoot groups migrated north, they weren't evolving. They were mutating, adapting to survival, not thriving. That's where lighter skin, narrow nostrils, reduced melanin, and behavioral changes began. All signs of environmental stress, not superiority. You don't get white by evolving, you get white by forgetting the sun. And that forgetting is not advancement, it's regression. The white genome contains 1-4% Neanderthal DNA. Let me repeat, whites didn't just descend from humans, they were cavemen. Black people have zero Neanderthal admixture. That's not a joke, that's biology. Black people are the originals. Non-Black people are the remix. The problem..."

In another video, sitting in the same car with the same clothing, this person added:

> "The war against Black genetics is a war against humanity. Melanin isn't pigment, it's the processor. It's the molecule that translates solar energy into life. Plants have it, animals have it, humans need it. Black people have the highest concentration of it. Which means Black people don't just live on Earth, they translate it. They are not just a race, they are the root species. Black isn't a color, it's the motherboard. Every other group? Adaptations, mutations, and mistakes. This isn't supremacy, this is truth. Black people didn't come from Africa, Africa came from Black people."

Imagine if we reverse the story here from blacks to whites being superior? With the same non-sensical arguments? The video wouldn't make it in any social media algorithm, certainly not in all the countries where such content would be deemed criminal all of a sudden.

In all honesty, the main thing that shocks me with the above video is that once again I see a parody of my own, this time private work, that much of Hollywood has been aware of for about a decade at this point. Except that in my private work I attribute it to very manipulative, very negative forces making these arguments. The argument? Black people are superior to white people, because they are...

Oh wait, let's not give my private version. But the public version here is: black people are superior, because... well, I don't know. I can't even make sense of it. Apparently because they are genetically older and therefore are more directly descended from monkeys. This is a desperate argument that has been used by the occasional black person to infer that they are the superior race, while I would call it evidence that blacks are more primitive - in particular looking at ethnic crime and ethnic IQ studies. Usually what comes after is more evolved. Don't just look at life's evolution on Earth from bacteria to lizards to mammals to humans, with ever greater intelligence. Also look at the production of the latest cars and motorcycles, ships and airplanes. What comes after, tends to be more "evolved" and "better". But not according to this desperate, schizo gay guy who is allowed to pollute the Instagram and TikTok suggestion lists...

In fact, I'd say that the only force that would want to elevate and spread black people all across the world to replace all high IQ societies is a malevalent force that wants to crush consciousness to such an extent that people do not have the ability anymore to create technology and rise themselves up from the murderous law of the jungle. No socialism. Just the law of the strongest, fastest, sneakiest, and the most poisonous.

A popular TikTok video by a communist, anti-colonialist, white-hating America-based Chinese woman nicknamed "Ning the Vanguard" probably comes closest to the sentiment above. She is not specifically talking about black people, but really about all primitive, indigenous people being better for "the Earth" than white colonialist industrialists. The state of civilization and ethnic crime statistics say otherwise, comparing big business to ordinary people is suspect at best, and she curiously doesn't criticize the terrible environmental records of countless Second World and Third World countries, such as China and India. None of that is surprising, of course, because what she is spreading is globalist propaganda - which is the only reason she was allowed to appear in social media suggestions.

Ning also is on Instagram, but only has about 2,500 followers here, compared to 80,000 followers on TikTok, which anno 2025 has a more exclusive focus on antifa activism than Instagram (it use to be different in 2022-2023, hence the rise of Andrew Tate and the likes). Ning in one of her pinned videos, at least on Instagram, and which is so popular on TikTok, said:

> "White people: you broke the earth. ... Not all of you individually, but the systems you built, the empires you enforced, the profit you prioritized over life. ... You came with guns, greed, and God. You took land that wasn't yours, spilled blood on sacred ground, and called it destiny. You clear-cut forests, enslaved people, dug holes in the earth for gold, turned the sky into a smokestack, and renamed the destruction "growth". ... You made water something to sell. You made civilization mean "white skin", private property, and concrete.
> "You told the world that nature was wild, that people who honored it were savages, and that domination was salvation. And when the earth cried out, when her lungs burned, and her rivers turned black, you didn't stop. You invented new ways to profit from collapse.
> "Now you want to fix it? Now you want to lead the way? No! You are not the solution. You are the crisis. But this story doesn't end with you, because the earth is not dead, not defeated. It is wounded, but it remembers. It remembers those who loved it before you fenced it off and mined its soul. It remembers the song Sung to Rivers, the hands that planted with gratitude, the firekeepers, the medicine carriers, the people who knew the Earth was not a thing, but a living relative.

"We remember, too. We remember that your empires are fragile, that your borders are fake, that your wealth is stolen, and that your time is running out. The earth can be healed, but not by white saviors, not by carbon offsets, not by policies written in boardrooms. Healing will come through justice, through land back, through reparations, through abolition, through the return of what was stolen and the dismantling of what never should have existed.

"The earth isn't dying. It's remembering, and it will only heal when white power ends. Cope."[89]

Still waiting for any solid arguments as to why white people are the problem compared to other races.

JEW HATRED, ARAB LOVE

"Liberal" and "conservative CIA" today allied in Jew-hatred and love of Arab terrorism

Instagram changed a lot in early 2025, after President Trump was elected and instated. One of the changes was the enormous amount of Nazi- and Jew-hatred-mixed "alt right" content now in the algorithm. This already was somewhat the case in 2024, but even in late 2024 I immediately received an official warning for making a comment about ethnic crime and IQ in an otherwise very anti-immigration thread. In 2025? No warnings along these lines whatsoever anymore. Getting up there in likes was the only problem, making one wonder about additional covert roles of bots or the algorithm.

As said before, I got back to Instagram just before the 12-Day-War between Israel and Iran in June 2025. Instagram has always been home to antifa bashing the Jews, but certainly from the time of the conflict absolute hatred of Jews was pouring out of your phone screen. The suggestions were so blatantly pro-Iran, pro-Hamas, and pro-Houthi, it feels like you landed in an alternate universe.

Even more crazy was the near endless Holocaust denial, references to the "dancing Israelis" of 9/11, and claims that Hollwyood actors are "all Jews" (only the studio bosses and producers have historically been Jew-dominated). Then there are continuous references to Jeffrey Epstein having been "Mossad".

It literally is crazy.

Look above at just a few examples of the Arab videos snickering at Israeli women in particular who lost their limbs after having earlier produced social media dance videos, or played guitar music. It is DARK. Only the most hate-filled persons would make such videos. And Instagram is happily distributing them.

Look at the "historian" explaining in detail how the Jews are the occupiers of Palestine - who in the next video is pushing old "alt right" disinformation that Roosevelt had allowed the Pearl Harbor attack to happen... Or see the video of Spanish antifa punkers dancing to the song, 'Let's go bomb Tel Aviv!' As discussed in ISGP's '"Liberal CIA": Rock Music' article, the entire punk movement, from top to bottom, is a hardcore pro-LGBTQ, Jew-hating antifa network - with only a handful of equally rabid "conservatives" allowed, most notably Misfits.

The Instagram algorithm simply feeds you perfect propaganda of what reasonably can only be Manchurian candidates. TikTok is no different.

"Liberal CIA" and antifa activists: all Israel haters

Interestingly, the Jew- and Israel-hatred dragged up by Instagram's algorithm, when spread by prominent persons, generally is spread by very familiar names to ISGP, mostly involving names that already have been discussed in some form or fashion in other articles on this site:

All personal Instagram screenshots, all around the June 2025 Israel-Iran War.

1. Dr. Jeffrey Sachs: Famous neoliberal economist and Bilderberg veteran, in later decades celebrated on social media as a raging anti-imperialist, anti-colonialist, and anti-America crusader. However, he's also super-pro-China, has a long history with George Soros, for example through their joint launching in 2004 of the United Nations' Millennium Villages Project [90]; and is near the top of ISGP's Superclass Index, involved in dozens of globalist NGOs, sitting along CFR, Bilderberg and Trilateral Commission elites.

2. John Mearsheimer: Co-author of the 2007 book 'The Israel Lobby and U.S. Foreign Policy', widely promoted at the time in relation to "the neocons", 9/11 "Truth" and War on Terror opponents. Non-resident fellow of the Rockefeller, Koch and Soros seed-funded "liberal CIA" Quincy Institute anno 2022-2025. Also invited by the anti-Israel alt right propagadist Tucker Carlson.

3. Bernie Sanders: Typical anti-corporate antifa/"liberal CIA" crusader. Top Soros- and Rockefeller-tied globalist economists Jeffrey Sachs and Joseph Stiglitz were key advisors to his 2016 presidential campaign in opposition to Trump and Hillary Clinton. He sat on the international advisory board of the Earth Day Network, home over the years to top new age globalists as Laurance Rockefeller, Maurice Strong, Ted Turner, and Al Gore.

4. Noam Chomsky: Major "new left" / "liberal CIA" activist of the 1960s and beyond. Long-time Israel critic. Exposed himself as controlled opposition by being an irrationally virulent opponent of all JFK assassination theories and 9/11 Truth. See ISGP's "liberal CIA" oversight for his biography details.

5. George Galloway: One of Britain's most angry antifa socialists, notorious for having been Saddam Hussein's ally in the 1990s. Well known too as a War on Terror critic in the 2000s. Totally pro-Arab terrorism and anti-Jewish. Wants Iran to build a nuclear bomb against Israel and the West. Founder and head of the Workers Party of Britain since 2019.

6. Max Blumenthal: "New left" journalist for "liberal CIA"-funded outlets as The Nation, AlterNet, Media Matters, etc. In 2011 and 2012 he was a staffer at the Lebanese newspaper Al Akhbar, known for its collaboration with the Iran-funded, anti-Israel Hezbollah terror group. [91] Blumenthal resigned from Al Akhbar when he apparently realized the newspaper was a bit too pro-Assad. [92] Repeatedly has stated that Israel's attack on Iran was "unprovoked". [93]

7. Scott Ritter: Former Marine captain and UN weapons inspector in Iraq from 1991-1998, who crusaded against the Bush administration during the War on Terror, continually aided by various elites, "liberal CIA" activists and outlets, and 9/11-no-plane disinformers.

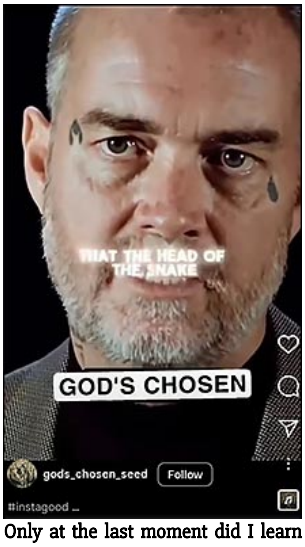
8. Ramsey Clark: Son of 1945-1949 U.S. attorney general Tom Clark. Himself attorney general in 1967-1969 under LBJ. As attorney general he prosecuted the "Boston Five", a group of Vietnam War opponents, who, somewhat predictably, were both CIA and "liberal CIA" - William Sloan Coffin, Jr. and Institute for Policy Studies co-founder Marcus Raskin in particular. Within a few years, Clark became a good friend of them. Now a "leftist", Clark joined a bunch of CIA and "liberal CIA"-funded groups, as the African-America Institute and the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. He became a member of the Stalinist Workers World Party, heading its International Action Center. He also became a close ally and lawyer to every enemy of the West and human decency: North Vietnam's communist leadership, Slobodan Milosevic, Saddam Hussein, Rwandan genocide perpetrators, Grenada's Bernard Coard, etc. In 2009 he appeared at the hopelessly anti-Israel, anti-West World Conference Against Racism as part of a group fronting for Libya's Gaddafi. Iranian president Mahmoud Ahmadinejad spoke here as well.

9. Ken O'Keefe: American-Irish-Palestinian activist who is both "left wing" and "right wing" when it comes to his Israel hatred. U.S. Marine from 1989, becoming a major critic of the 1991 Gulf War I, at least at a later stage over the use of depleted uranium and Gulf War Syndrome. [94]



Only at the last moment did I learn that this Instagram-suggested clip of Ken O'Keefe is the introduction to the 2017 Neo-Nazi film 'Europa: The Last Battle' from Sweden's Nordic Resistance Movement. Associating anti-immigration with Nazism is globalist proprganda 101.

In 1996 O'Keefe became involved in marine conservation around the island of Hawaii. In 1998 and 2000 he joined the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society on one of its activist vessels against whaling, becoming a protege here of the globalist elite-tied Greenpeace co-founder Paul Watson. From Watsen he learned counter-insurgency tactics with regard to western security services. [95] By the 2000s he was describing Watson as one of his "very good friends". [96]

In 1999 he renounced his U.S. citizenship, apparently for the first time. Him burning his passport is dated to anything from 1999 to 2004. From December 2002 on, as part of the Universal Kinship Society (uksociety.org), he was the key organizer of human shield actions to help protect Saddam Hussein's oil industry and other targets from the looming Iraq War, making the following globalist call:

> "I invite everybody to join me in declaring themselves not citizens of nations but world citizens [and to] honour the principles and laws of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights." [97]

By the late 2000s O'Keefe had become a close ally of the Hamas terrorist organization in Gaza, partaking in anti-Israel flotillas towards Gaza and meeting with Hamas' Gaza prime minister Ismail Haniyeh to broker a deal with the Hawaiian government. [98]

Haniyeh was assassinated by Israel over the October 7, 2023 Hamas invasion.

In 2012 O'Keefe caused controversy in Great Britain for saying how Israel was involved in 9/11, "continues to foster false-flag terrorism", and that "in its current form should be destroyed." [99] In 2016 he caused controversy in Canada for, again, denying the Holocaust and suggesting some kind of Protocols of Zion-style global Jewish conspiracy:

> "We can see what happened to Kennedy [for] bypassing the Jewish banking debt... and we know that Adolf Hitler, according to the official history, is hated because he apparently exterminated 6 million Jews. ... Challenge the Holocaust narrative or the World War II narrative, you will go to prison. ... The Holocaust narrative, is that which has been used to effectively steal Palestine from the Palestinians. ... The amount of power within ... the Jewish population is simply stunning! Stunning! Less than two per cent of the human population, and it pervades all of the high top levels of the corporate world, the banking sector, the mass media." [100]

In December 2013 O'Keefe became a host for The People's Voice, with founder David Icke, immediately after O'Keefe's introduction, beginning to talk about the key importance of... chemtrails, even before agreeing that Israel is committing genocide against the Palestinians. [101] O'Keefe also allied himself with American white supremacist David Duke and Sweden's Neo-Nazi Nordic Resistance Movement, all over Jew hatred and Holocaust denial.

10. Muhammed Ali: Old clips of the boxer shows him to have been a first-rate white hater and antifa activist - albeit in his case not without reason. For context, keep in mind that the Rockefellers were financing Martin Luther King.

11. IShowSpeed: Biggest international influencer by 2025, who gets shipped into countries around the world to help soften them to mass black immigration. Completely pro-Palestine who blocks and hates on every Jew who identifies him- or herself as such, even when they involve his fanbase. At least, so much is clear from two Instagram-fed clips to this author. [102]

"Conservative CIA" pundits: the handful pro-Israel ones

In contrast to the above favorite Instagram algorithm "lefties", a list of personal "random" Instagram suggestions with regard to prominent and semi-prominent "alt right" pundits, initially here of pro-Israel or relatively neutral ones:

- Donald Trump: U.S. president. As a representative of the alt right, old right, Christian right, Cold War "new right", and finally the neocons, Trump has ultimately been very pro-Israel. I've never seen his speeches or comments being suggested on Instagram though.

- Elon Musk: Similar to Trump, I've never seen his (political) views being suggested on Instagram. He mainly appeared in relation to AI-manipulated videos, or anything technology-based.

  Silicon Valley titan. Wealthiest man on Earth. Key Trump backer who in May 2025 started attacking Trump over the tariff war, not cutting spending extreme enough, followed by setting up his own political party and calling out Trump for his Jeffrey Epstein ties. Much of the "alt right" copied the Epstein accusations, but where the "alt right" started to heavily attack Israel and the Israel Lobby in the wake of the June 2025 Israel-Iran War, Musk has stayed on the surface - this despite his infamous Hitler salute during Trump's inauguration on January 20, 2025. Fact remains, Musk has always supported Israel and Netanyahu. During the Israel-Iran War in June 2025, he activated Starlink internet above Iran to cancel out Iranian internet censorship of its people. [103] Similar to Peter Thiel, Musk represents the "corporate opposition" to the "old right" / "alt right", as well as to "liberal CIA" and the antifa.

- Kid Rock: A surprisingly pragmatic, a-political view on the Israel-Gaza conflict. The following Kid Rock said on Joe Rogan's podcast, with Rogan coming across as pretty desperate to change Kid Rock's viewpoints:

  > "The only wars we won were the ones where we were the most brutal motherfuckers on the planet. I don't disagree with what Israel is doing: ... "We want our hostages back. If we don't have them back, the clock starts now in fucking 24 hours. We're going to start bombing motherfuckers and killing fucking civilians. 30,000, 40,000 a fucking time. So you civilians better pack up and fucking get these [Hamas] motherfuckers." And tell them, "You go against Hamas. ... We're not playing fucking games with you." That's the only thing people understand.
  > "This is what happened in Nagasaki and Hiroshima. Boom! Wiped out. They're like, "Oh, yes, we don't have supreme

> "No, I'm sorry, man. This is fucking war. It's terrible. It's the worst thing on earth. I'm a peaceful man."[104]

- Charlie Kirk: Very prominent on TikTok and Instagram over the years in debating antifa-type college students. 2012 founder of "conservative CIA" group Turning Point USA, key in turning American college and university students back towards conservatism. Specifically set up to counter the Soros-funded Moveon.org group. Kirk became one of Trump's closest personal agents of change, and also has been a fervent defender of Israel, even by mid 2025, explaining to an Arab Christian critic that "in our scriptures it says we should bless the Jews [and that we have a] covenant with Israel."[105]

- Piers Morgan: Slippery little interviewer of an endless stream of alt right guys as host of the semi-alt right outlet Sky News, but still pro-Jewish, as debates with Kanye West and Andrew Tate have demonstrated. He also heavily denies white replacement.

- Jesse Lee Peterson: Black conservative, who seems to be the only person to openly say that more white babies need to be born, because "white people tend to be more innovative. They are more creative. They have ideas about things. All these other races don't do nothing but destroy." That clip was removed almost everywhere from YouTube, and no even remotely "respectable" media ever cited it. [106] It appears Peterson doesn't really know what to think of why the Jews are hated so much [107] and is puzzled how the alliance between Christians and Jews has broken down. [108] As for his early history, he was inspired towards the right by 9/11-no-plane disinformer Louis Farrakhan of the Nation of Islam. He developed long-time ties to conservative CIA entities as Judicial Watch and Newsmax, and tasked with debating "liberal CIA"-funded groups as the NAACP.

- NELK Boys: The NELK boys weren't among my regular Instagram suggestions, but rather videos criticizing the July 2025 Netanyahu interview.

  The NELK Boys try to stay a little in the middle on the Israel issue, and mainly seem intimidated by any (manipulated) social media backlash. The NELK Boys podcast was recreated in 2020 by Trump and Dana White. Search ISGP's "conservative CIA" article for details. In July 2025, they did an interview with Netanyahu, with bizarrely ALL social media comments being hyper-negative about it. Subsequently they discussed the interview with Kanye West ally Sneako, with the NELK Boys explaining, "I actually said to Netanyahu's face, "Yo, you're making it harder and harder for Americans to wanna support Israel. Which is almost non-existent at this point, it feels - from a social media perspective [or] if you go to the African-American [people], they're gonna be, "Free Palestine." [But] there's a lot of people in Israel too that don't agree with what is going on.""

"Conservative CIA" pundits: pro-Hitler, pro-Hamas, anti-Israel

These type of pundits, as a whole, are considerably more prominent on Instagram anno 2025:

All screenshots of personal suggestions, except the one of Gavis McInnes, as I lost the screenshots of him. It's still a screenshot from Instagram though, with the HodgeTwins.

- Andrew Tate: Old protege of Alex Jones from 2017, who happened to become a famous TikTok influencer in 2022. Piers Morgan accurately told Tate, who turned Muslim, that his anti-Israel stance happens to be the same as the UK's socialist and labour politician Jeremy Corbyn.[109]
- Gen. Mike Flynn: Trump's initial national security advisor in early 2017. Pizzagate promotor at the time, together with his son. Critical of Israel.

- Tucker Carlson: Emerged virulently anti-Jew, anti-Israel and pro-Iran in the wake of Trump's bombing of Iran's nuclear sites.
- Gavin McGinnes: Vice Media co-founder who set up Proud Boys in 2016.
- Hayden McDougall: McGinnes employee.
- Kanye West: Went the pro-Hitler route in late 2022, looking to be a conservative rival to Trump in the elections. Assisted by Milo Yiannopoulos and other conservative propagandists, such as Nick Fuentes.
- Nick Fuentes: Nazi-sidekick of Kanye West. Proud virgin [110] and pedophile, really tossing the manliness of the "alt right" movement out there.
- Sneako: Nazi-sidekick of Kanye West.
- Tommy Robinson: Former founder of the anti-Muslim English Defense League that played a role in the 2024 Southport riots.
- Myron Gaines: "Cool"-talking, "misogynist", half-Arabic Sudanese immigrant with the name Amrou Fudl, who is anti-Jew, anti-Israel, and anti-black.

All vibing to 'Heil Hitler'

Making it easier to discuss all the time. Kick, TikTok and Instagram-pushed influencers Andrew Tate (out of view), Tristan Tate, Nick Fuentes, Myron Gaines, Braden Peters (Clavicular), and Justin Waller (not visible here, but laughing along; I noticed him a lot in Instagram suggestions, but only as a high-strung fitness guru) singing along to Kanye West's song 'Heil Hitler'. West, flanked by Fuentes and Sneako at various times, headed the pro-Nazi conservative "opposition" to Trump in 2024. The above get-together was just after the Ayatollah in Iran - whom these influencers also support - butchered protesters by the tens of thousands.

- Candace Owens: Known black conservative propagandist. Very anti-Jew and anti-Israel.
- Hodge Twins: Old fitness influencers who became conservative propagandists. After Kanye's December 2022 pro-Hitler rant on the Alex Jones Show, the twins soon joined him. Very anti-Jew and anti-Israel Lobby, fully agreeing to all the pro-Hitler, pro-Hamas, pro-Houthi, and pro-Ayatollah Iran comments made by Dan Bilzerian in one of their podcasts. [111] Tellingly, the Hodge Twins have interviewed a (black) person promoting Flat Earth and ancient aliens disinformation. [112]
- Dan Bilzerian: Playboy jetsetter allied with the "alt right". Raging Jew and Israel hater.
- Theo Von: One of the biggest podcasters of 2025, in no small part due to an alliance with Dana White and Joe Rogan. Jovial guy who became extremely anti-Israel.
- Joe Rogan: Employee and friend of Dana White since 1997. Biggest podcaster of the early and mid 2020s, who not only has been spreading mountains of conspiracy disinformation (including Holocaust deniers), and also turned rather pro-Palestine/anti-Israel in 2025.

More extended biographies on a lot of these persons:

Dan Bilzerian

Playboy jetsetter son of a wealthy father who appears to have hidden much of his wealth away from the authorities. Pro-Hitler, pro-Hamas, pro-Houthi, and pro-Ayatollah Iran playboy who blames absolutely everything on "the Jews": the pushing of LBGTQ propaganda, Hollywood movie propaganda, the JFK assassination, 9/11, all Middle East turmoil of the past decades, etc. All his tweets and public comments have been summarized in a biography of him in ISGP's Hollywood bios oversight.

Oh, this guy is great. This is [Soros ally, former Bilderberger, Davos veteran and top 20 globalist Jeffrey] Sachs.

Bilzerian prefers Arab terrorists over Jews, as well as Iran's Sharia regime, with its up to 45 minute torture-hangings, half the time after trials lasting less than 45 minutes, testimony obtained under torture, and women having few rights. [113] In January 2026 the Iranian regime butchered protesters by the tens of thousands.

Forever in Instagram suggestions, both on women and Israel. Here on the Hodgetwins podcast. His advice on women actually is great, and he clearly is too smart to mean everything he says on the Jews.

Bilzerian, who opposes "wokeness" (except, apparently, legal Arab immigration), has retweeted anyone from Tucker Carlson to Nick Fuentes, and appeared on many alt right-type podcasts to explain "Jewish supremacy" is the problem instead of "the left" - very similar to the old Liberty Lobby and Rense crowd. Bilzerian is a "friend" of the similarly pro-Hamas Muslim convert and "alt right hero" Andrew Tate. Ironically thinks top antifa globalist and close Soros ally Jeffrey Sachs is "great". Described himself as a "friend" as well of Mohamed Hadid, Gigi and Bella Hadid's father who back in the 1980s was a U.S.-based frontman of a Saudi billionaire Sulaiman Abdul Al-Aziz al-Rajhi, who in turn appeared on the 1988 "Golden Chain" list of Al Qaeda financiers, alongside controversial BCCI director Khalid bin Mahfouz. That's awfully close to both covert CIA and Mossad operations.

Alex Jones

Shows up on occasion in random Instagram suggestions, but has never been a "conspiracy Nazi" of the Liberty Lobby and Jeff Rense types. Still spreads nothing but conspiracy disinformation and comes from a CIA family. Infamously, in 2022, he brought on Kanye West, flanked by Nick Fuentes, with West having his pro-Hitler speech that went three times around the world. Jones looked very uncomfortable, but it could well have just been an act. Ultimately West was a conservative presidential candidate who had to be promoted, so he was brought on.

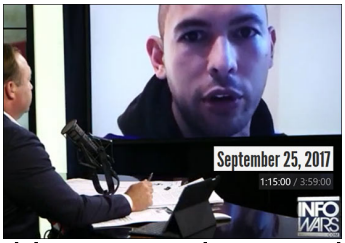
Tucker Carlson

Major hero of the post-Fox News alt right. A major Trump promoter in 2024, but in 2025 turned virulently anti-Jew, anti-Israel and pro-Iran in the wake of Trump's bombing of Iran's nuclear sites. His propaganda and biases always are visible through his guests, which have ranged from Alex Jones to John Mearsheimer, the anti-Israel lobby author of the War on Terror years who was given a position with his co-author Stephen Walt at the Koch-, Rockefeller- and Soros-funded Quincy Institute for Responsible Statecraft. Tucker will agree with any antifa on the Israel debate.

Tucker already has a biography in ISGP's "conservative CIA" oversight, because both he and his pro-Iran Contra propagandist father were members of the elite Anglo-American Pilgrims Society, together with over a century of Morgans, Rockefellers, Vanderbilts, Mellons, Astors, Rothschilds, British royals, and Andre Carnegie. Considering this author is the first to release two dozen membership lists of the group, this membership has been quite a secretive affair for a supposed conservative Christian "man of the people".

Andrew Tate



Click image to enlarge. Personal Instagram suggestion of this person shared earlier.

A manosphere TikTok influencer who exploded to worldwide fame in mid 2022 by somehow "manipulating" the TikTok algorithm. However, he's an old guest and guest host - since at least least 2017 - of CIA-tied conspiracy disinformer Alex Jones. His black Russian-speaking chess grandmaster father was suspected to have been a spy for the CIA. Tate's bio is to be found in ISGP's "conservative CIA" article.

Presented himself as anti-Muslim immigration and an ally of "conservative CIA" leaders as Donald Trump, Nigel Farage [114], anti-

Muslim English Defense League leader Tommy Robinson [115], Alex Jones and others. In late 2022 he became a Muslim and certainly after the genocidal October 7, 2023 Hamas attack on Israel, Tate effectively came out as a raging supporter of Hamas:

> "The Israelis are genociding the Palestinians. ... I cannot professionally answer that question without talking about the context that let up to October 7th. ... I don't know what answer you expect from me, because I'm a Muslim. ... That's a very interesting question [if October 7th was an act of terrorism]. ... That's a very interesting question [if Hamas is a terrorist organization], but I think you are peddling asininities. ... I didn't say Hamas is a force for good. I said it's a pressure cooker and it's a shame. ... Killing 40 babies [during October 7th] - that was true! Were the babies vaccinated? ... One person's terrorist is another man's freedom fighter. ... A tiny Hamas rocket that can make a pothole in the road, and then they get hit back with cruise missiles. ... Did [the Palestinians] suffer acts of barbaric terrorism before that [October 7th] date? Yes! And it's unfortunately an eye for eye in this world. ... I think when you lock people in an open air prison you have got to expect retaliation. ... Russia has not done a fraction of the things to Ukraine that Israel has done to Palestine. ... I don't think me and [antifa-socialist politician Jeremy] Corbyn would agree on [us sounding the same.]
> "The point I'm making is that the media lies! ... Innocents are dying in a chess game played by the elites, both sides!" [116]

Anno 2025, Tate is at risk of being a "has been" but still is featured in TikTok and Instagram feeds at this point with some regularity. In January 2026 he was among the social influencers vibing and singing to Kanye West's song 'Heil Hitler', although, granted, he was among the two not in view. [117]

Gavin McInnes

Click image to enlarge.

Co-founder of the "liberal CIA" Vice Media in 1994. Left Vice Media in 2008. Invited to the conspiracy disinformation-riddled Joe Rogan podcast in October 2015, invitations that also were extended to Vice Media co-founder Shane Smith. [118] Co-founded the "conservative CIA" Proud Boys gang in September 2016, which soon was clashing with antifa activists. Appeared on the radio show of CIA-tied conspiracy disinformer Alex Jones in September 2018, as a guest host; and in December 2018, as a regular guest. [119] This was after McInnes' Twitter had been shut down just before the pro-Nazi Unite the Right 2 rally, once again organized by Jason Kessler, a former member of McInnes' Proud Boys political violence gang. [120] Has privately chatted with Alex Jones in building up Jones' son, Rex Jones [121], as a conservative conspiracy disinformer. [122] On January 6, 2021, various Proud Boys member were involved in the United States Capitol attack due to the "stolen election", as (falsely) alleged by Donald Trump. McInnes interviewed Jones in December 2022 [123], so they've been quite close, which can mean only one thing: McInnes is controlled opposition.

Nick Fuentes

It must be said, he talks very well in his Instagram and TikTok videos - both with new comments and snippets of his old 2017-founded 'America First' podcast - about white replacement. He voices many things that so many other whites think, and for which whites would go to prison in many European countries. In 2024-2025 he is the only one pointing out the fact that a supposedly anti-immigration government prominently involves Indian names as Usha Bala, the wife of vice president Vance, a surprisingly "anti-racist" [124] protege of neocon Bilderberg steering committee member Peter Thiel; Vivek Ramaswamy, the Elon Musk ally in DOGE and wannabe U.S. governor who refused to integrate and denounces America's white heritage [125], with Musk in turn being a close friend of Thiel; and Kashyap Pramod "Kash" Patel, sworn in as FBI director in 2025, and somewhat tone-deaf too for a Trump conservative with his Diwali greetings, a reference to a Hindu festival. [126]

Obviously no later than 2019, his 'America First' podcast was totally stripped from Google and YouTube, but through other search engines you can still find all the old episodes. [127] Looking at his connections, he was far more than just an obscure "podcast guy". In 2019 he was clashing with the prominent Nazi Richard Spencer, together with Milan Yiannopoulos. [128] At the same time, Fuentes was endlessly reported on by super-conspiracy Nazi disinformer Andrew Anglin's The Daily Stormer.

In 2022 Fuentes grew to prominence by being Kanye West's sidekick from the moment Ye became the most open Hitler-lover in history. In November 2022, Ye and Ye's assistant, the conservative gay Milan Yiannopoulos, brought along Fuentes to a meeting with former and future President Trump, with the idea of getting Trump to more openly support the January 6, 2021 "coup plotters" that were on trial, and also with Ye angering Trump by suggesting Trump should be his running mate. [129]

Days later, Fuentes accompanied Ye to the infamous December 3, 2022 Alex Jones Show where Ye went:

"Germany had a really cool leader at one point. ... There's a lot of things that I love about Hitler. ... Love you! Love you! Love you!" [130]

Another few days later, Ye and Fuentes went on the Gavin McGinnes podcast, where McGinnes, similar to Jones, supposedly tried to dissuade Ye from embracing Hitler. [131] Unsurprisingly, Fuentes has an obsession himself with Holocaust denial and Israel hatred.

Fascinatingly, in January 2023, well before this was done with Alex Jones, Elon Musk, who had bought Twitter, unblocked the earlier-mentioned super-Nazi conspiracy disinformer Andrew Anglin of the Daily Stormer, as well as now Ye's presidential campaign manager Nick Fuentes - who had been banned in July 2021. Instantly Fuentes professed his own love for Hitler, repeatedly making it clear that a genocide against the Jews was in the planning. A day later Musk was forced to ban Fuentes again, who had 150,000 followers, with 14,000 people checking in on a life stream of his. [132]

In a more unique twist, Fuentes has been a major fan of pedophilia. Already in 2017 he was among those conservatives, next to Fox News bigot Sean Hannity [133], protecting the Senate campaign of conservative Alabama chief justice Roy Moore, accused by about a dozen women and other witnesses of habitually preying on teenage girls in the ages of 14 to 16-years-old at the local mall, also trying to mislead mothers about his intentions. [134] According to Fuentes, "Our buddy Roy Moore ... 40 years ago, he goes on a consensual date with underage girls, which was legal at the time [at least from 16-years-old]..." [135]

The pedophile angle goes much deeper though with Fuentes. Since at least early 2022, he has voiced the idea of replacing LGBTQ and feminism with pro-pedophile laws [136] that allow all adults to go after children "past the point of puberty" [137], i.e. on average 8-14 in girls and 10-16 in boys. Why? Because laws of consent don't exist to protect children, but instead are about "artificially increasing the sexual market place value of older women." [138] Combine this with the fact that Fuentes is a proud virgin, and it makes for a peculiar mix. [139]

Ironically, when by April 2023 Milan Yiannopoulos - himself canceled in 2017 for supporting sexual grooming of 13-year-olds and up on the Joe Rogan Experience podcast [140] - felt he was being sidelined in Ye's presidential bid, he released evidence that Fuentes' friend, Ali Akbar / Ali

Alexander, with whom he visited the Alex Jones Show in December 2022, was a homosexual pedophile solicitating dick pics from boys as young as 15. [141] Fuentes defended Akbar with the statement, "I think at 15, 16, 17, I think you know what you're doing." [142] In the past, Akbar had received financing from "conservative CIA" asset Robert Mercer. [143] Both Akbar and Alex Jones were preferred by Trump to address the January 6 capitol stormers. [144]

There have been all kinds of weird pedophile episodes like these surrounding Fuentes, for example involving his 2021 CPAC protest ally TheLatinoZoomer, who soon after ended in prison over a terrorist threat and an additional child pornography charge due to what was found on his confiscated phone (which appears to have been just 1 set of pictures, deep down in his screenshot folder). Fuentes almost mockingly defended TheLatinoZoomer on his podcast by going, "I know those screenshots were faked." [145] Fuentes long-time Daily Stormer ally Andrew Anglin, also a major pedophile. [146] Fuentes' 'America First' staffer CatboyKami / LoliSocks and allies as Baked Alaska have had pedophile and sexual perversion questions raised about them, as have others in the vicinity of Fuentes. [147] Fuentes' comments on a 15-year-old Charli and Dixie d'Amelio are innocent in comparison. [148] Fuentes is part of a very curious network.

Fuentes was briefly discussed by Trump when Trump appeared on the Joe Rogan podcast in 2024. [149] He was semi-defended by Joe Rogan a year later - amidst the alt right backlash against Israel over Gaza and the Israel-Iran War - as a possible Holocaust "revisionist" instead of a "denier". [150] Then again, Rogan also brought on persons as Ye (back when he brought out his alien shoes), Milan Yiannopoulos, Candice Owens, Tucker Carlson, and Darryl Cooper [151], the last one a co-host of Jocko Willink and Tucker Carlson's favorite Holocaust apologist "historian". [152] Fuentes has praised Joe Rogan, Theo Von, Stephen A. Smith, Jason Whitlock, and Patrick Bet-David for bringing on guests that criticize the Israel Lobby. [153] He's been on the Fresh & Fit podcast [154], Bradley Martin's show [155], and more. Prominent, Jew-hating social media influencer John Zherka has been a big fan of Fuentes [156], with Zherka too loving to make edgy statements on being a "pedophile" and the idea of funding a "masculine Catholic movement" with Fuentes. [157]

In January 2026 Fuentes was among the social influencers vibing and singing to Kanye West's song 'Heil Hitler', alongside Myron Gaines, Sneako, the Tate brothers and others. [158]

Hayden McDougall

Accountant with an Instagram channel with 778k followers, marketing himself as "5'7 high value alpha male." Head of marketing of Gavin

McInnes' 2019-founded Censored.tv [159], so part of the exact same network as above. This is far from immediately obvious though, as McDougall is separately served to Instagram users without any overt references being made to Censored.tv.

Tommy Robinson

2009 founder of the hard-right, anti-Islam English Defence League, which he headed until 2013. Members of the English Defence League supported pro-Nazi mass child murderer Anders Breivik [160], who in 2011 killed 77 persons, mostly youths, of Norway's Workers' Youth League, associated with Labour Party. After his time with the English Defence League, in January 2016, Robinson was the founding coordinator of the anti-Islam Pegida UK. [161] Pegida has international branches all getting in the news - and also in social media feeds - for burning Korans and sometimes for promoting Naziism.

Myron Gaines

Click image to enlarge. Personal Instagram suggestion of this person shared earlier.

Former Homeland Security agent who became a co-host of the Fit & Fresh Podcast, founded in 2020 and initially big on TikTok. It was always loaded with black girls and guys, similar to the @whatever podcast always calling women out for the dishonest and nonsensical statements on what they want in a man. Gaines presents himself as black, but in reality a half-Arabic Sudanese immigrant with the name Amrou Fudl. Gaines is a Holocaust denier who interviewed Nick Fuentes several times in July 2023, in part to talk about the "JQ", or Jewish question. Invited to the Alex Jones Show in April 2025, he criticized Israel some more and shouted out Sneako.

In January 2026 Gaines was among the social influencers vibing and singing to Kanye West's song 'Heil Hitler', alongside Nick Fuentes, Sneako, the Tate brothers and others. Gaines was the only one repeatedly making Nazi salutes. [162]

Social media star with Filipino-Haitian-Jewish ancestory. Converted to Islam in mid 2023. Worked for globalist-oriented social media superstar MrBeast for a few weeks [163], with MrBeast continuing to follow him on an Elon Musk-controlled Twitter. [164] Soon became an unlikely, Nazi-loving conservative. Did videos asking white people to say the word "nigger" [165], and railed against gays and "the feminists", which young teenagers seem to love. [166] Allied with pedo Nazi Nick Fuentes. [167] Similar to Fuentes, served as Ye West's sidekick, in his case to a 2025 Pierce interview where Ye once explained his love of everything Nazi and Hitler. [168] This was one month after Myron Gaines shouted out Sneako on the Alex Jones Show. Similar to Fuentes, Ye and Gaines, has himself too consistently attacked Israel and the Jews. Examples are him shouting, "Free Palestine, down with the Yehud" [169], claims to see Mossad agents everywhere [170], pigeon-holing Jeffrey Epstein as a Mossad agent [171]; straightening the NELK Boys out over their Netanyahu interview, explaining, while seemingly reading from a paper, "Israelis hate Jesus Christ. They spit on Christians. [But] ask any Muslim, they'll say they love Jesus." [172] Of course, Sneako is also spreading disinformation about the Holocaust. [173] In addition, he has protected Alex Jones from "staged" Sandy Hook victim claims, while calling Covid vaccines "fake vaccines" [174], so he spreads disinformation across the board. Despite all the controversy, in June 2025 Robert De Niro, Leonardo DiCaprio and DiCaprio bestie Tobey Maguire were willing to have dinner with Sneako. [175]

On a personal note, I first fully noticed Sneako when conservative maniac and UFC fighter Sean Strickland beat up Sneako in a sparring match. [176] So there's yet another Dana White and UFC connection to Trump's entire social media conservative movement. In fact, as I'm writing this, I also notice Sneako continually in the presence of Rampage Jackson, including sitting next to Rampage when Rampage learns his son almost beat a wrestler to death. In other words, Nazi propagandist Sneako is everywhere. [177]

I first had vaguely seen Sneako on TikTok though in 2023, as one part of the Third World duo with N3on (real name: Rangesh Mutama) doing bits with white hotties Skybri and Breckie Hill - the latter being the one showing up in my TikTok. N3on is the ultimate, mega-awkward geek forcibly trying to speak "alpha male", all the while annoying you with Islamic teachings. [178] How that foursome ever was set up remains a mystery, but it feels like yet another MKULTRA experiment, and maybe by the "prostitute" comment alone, that some money exchanged hands. N3on streamed not just to YouTube, but also the Rumble video platform of right-wing "conservative CIA" Bilderberger Peter Thiel and JD Vance, who a year later took over the U.S. government with the Trump election.

Turns out, N3on and Sneako tried to visit UFC 296 in December 2023 [179], one of the events where presidential candidate Trump visited. N3on was rejected though, for announcing he was going to confront Trump on various issues. It resulted in a big public argument with Dana White. [180] Of course, it only increased his visibility. N3on apologized, and things were all fine from there. [181]

In January 2026 Sneako was among the social influencers vibing and singing to Kanye West's song 'Heil Hitler', alongside Nick Fuentes, Myron Gaines, the Tate brothers and others. [182]

John Zherka

Prominent and very abrasive and edgy social media star since at least 2023. Ally of Nick Fuentes against Zionism, on the pedophile debate, and the idea of funding a "masculine Catholic movement." [183] Gavin McInnes was involved in the same Zionism debate as Nick Fuentes that Zherka, through his own stream, tossed his own hyper-anti-Jewish, and completely uninformed, comments over. [184]

Candace Owens

Pretty black conservative activist. Director of urban engagement at Charlie Kirk's "conservative CIA" Turning Point USA from November 2017 to May 2019, in no small part to stop allegations of racism. In April 2018 supported by future Hitler-lover Kanye West with the tweet: "I love the way Candace Owens thinks." Raging anti-Israel and anti-Jewish activist, supporting the likes of Andrew Tate in that. Similar to Joe Rogan, she even had on Ian Carroll, a conspiracy Nazi, Holocaust denier, and Pizzagate promoter who has done zero unique research.

Theo Von

Part of a podcast with Candace Owens.

Benefited in his podcast career from Dana White, Donald Trump, and Joe Rogan support. Always jovial, but in 2024-2025 became an anti-Israel and pro-Palestine activist. He has given "Free Palestine" shoutouts [185], cried over the children of Gaza with a "liberal CIA"-tied [186] Jewish doctor named Gabor Maté, after apparently watching some NSFW videos about Gaza [187]; and suggested to vice president JD Vance that America cuts of financial support to Israel over the Gaza "genocide":

> "We're complicit in it, because we help like fund military stuff. ... I'm paying these taxes. ... Sometimes it looks like we are looking out for the interests of Israel, before we look out for the interests of America."[188]

The agenda is clear, not just through the statements of his podcast peers, but also when on other podcasts you hear Von beginning to underplay the Holocaust, and paint Jews as either having been docile about it, or maybe even suggest it wasn't all that big of a deal:

> "Why do you talk ... about Gaza [people will ask me]? All you ever heard growing up from all these movies... you couldn't even go to the bookstore at the airport with half the fucking books are about the Holocaust. You know, it's like, "We get it!" You know? But it was chiseled into your brain. ... There's other genocides happening. I don't know about a lot of them, but I want to learn about them. I just talked to a genocide professor the other day that lives in England, and I'd like to go and interview him...
> "And people are always like, "Well, I can't believe the [Jewish] people right outside of [Nazi] concentration camps never said anything, never sounded an alarm, never even whistled loudly." So I'm like, well... if you see a fucking genocide ... you got to say it. ... Especially when you've been taught all your life, you're supposed to say it. ... If it's wrong [the Gaza genocide], what the fuck do I lose? What does anybody lose? ... Whatever. "Oh, my bad.""[189]

It's recognizable and problematic. On August 12, 2025 Von interviewed Dr. Aziz Rahman, a doctor who spent two weeks in the middle of June 2025 working as an emergency doctor in Gaza, right when the food crisis became very bad to to Israeli blockages. Checking up on some of Rahman's claims though, he can only be described as a major Hamas apologist - something that most Arabs have in common. He avoids any and all criticism of Hamas, doesn't acknowledge its extensive use of civilian targets, knows everything about AI drone targeting, even referring the Rockefeller- and Soros-funded outlet that (hopefully fully accurately) exposed it; denies the extensive links between UNRWA and Hamas [190], copies the "death trap" propaganda against the GHF without a bit of balance [191], and on it goes. All these issues are discussed in ISGP's Hamas article, originally specifically created to check Dr. Rahman's claims.

For example, Dr. Rahman describes the "amazing individual" Hussam Abu Safiya, the executive director of Gaza's Kamal Adham hospital who "has been in jail since December [2024, with] no charges against him."[192] People can visit the Kamal Adham hospital section of ISGP's Hamas article for details and sources, but it's been extensively described by at least 3 IDF soldiers how the Abu Safiya was "strutting around like a peacock" during an ID and questioning operation at the hospital, thinking he could get away with running a massive Hamas operation in his hospital, similar to what has been going on for years at the more famous al-Shifa Hospital. During the operation that Adham was arrested, a senior Hamas commander was pulled out of an ambulance with fake injuries, while other Hamas militants were found in dedicated Hamas sections dressed up as women, one even holding a baby. [193]

Joe Rogan

Close friend and employee of Dana White since the late 1990s, and also close to CIA-tied conspiracy disinformer Alex Jones from around 2000. Most popular podcaster in the world of the early and mid 2020s. Always been a big fan of Coast to Coast AM-type conspiracy disinfomation, including 9/11-no-plane-theories. Apart from Alex Jones, Rogan has Rockefeller CIA ties through one of his besties since the 1990s, Bryan Callen. His podcast features a large amount of conspiracy disinformers: from Bob Lazar's Area 51 claims, to Graham Hancock, to another of Rogan's closest friends since the 1990s: flat earther and fellow 9/11-no-planer Eddie Bravo.

While Rogan hasn't been crying outright over "the children of Gaza", like his buddy Theo Von, he was praised by the Soros-tied antifa outlet The Young Turks for choking up over the "women and children that are getting blown apart."[194] Why is it that I've never seen a woman choke up over Israel, but Rogan and Von are tearing up? And why is it that realpolitical and geopolitical aspects of the Gaza conflict for the Arabs, Israel, and Soros and "liberal CIA" financiers is not discussed?

In one of many red flags, such as bringing all kinds of anti-Israel conspiracy disinformers and propagandists on, Rogan has repeatedly gotten very preachy on the subject of Gaza. He even was to Kid Rock, who has a very pragmatic, stand-off-ish view on the Israel-Palestine conflict. Rogan tried to counter Kid Rock by drawing extensive fictional parallels of drug cartels potentially causing havoc in America, and if the U.S. should then bomb the entire population of Mexico as a result [195] - which is not a great parallel, because not 44% of Mexico voted in a drug cartel with the express aim of wiping the U.S. off the map, and another 41% voted in a slightly less radical drug cartel, with 88% of the entire population outright supporting genocidal attacks on the U.S.

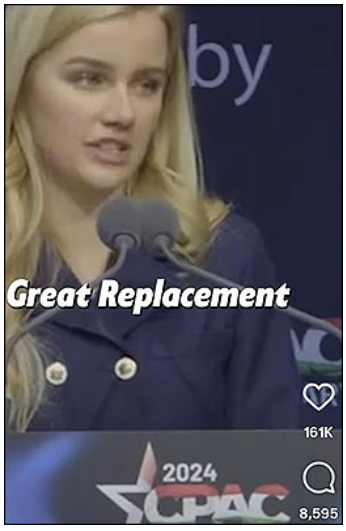
Dutch suggestions: antifa and alt right, increasingly anti-Israel

Because this author is from the Netherlands, with regularity not just U.S. pundits are shown in the feed, but also Dutch ones. Traditionally the neocon politician Geert Wilders, or his more traditional alt right (or "nutty right", especially for the Netherlands) tended to be part of the occasional Instagram or TikTok suggestion. I have not seen them this round though. Instead, there were the individuals below:

1. Eva Vlaardingerbroek: Listed in ISGP's "conservative CIA" overview. Looks like she should star as an elf in a Lord of the Rings trilogy next to Megan Fox. Also might well be the most to-the-point and pragmatic of all international "alt-right" critics of Third World immigration - ignoring her pro-nationalism, anti-EU, anti-Ukraine and anti-Israel views. It's the first of a lot of red flags.



I actually backed up most of her April 2024 Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC) speech in Viktor Orban's Hungaria, excerpts of which I was fed by Instagram's suggestions matrix - something I still have a hard time believing. In the full speech Vlaardingenbroek listed the immigrant percentages of major western cities: Brussels: 70%, London: 54%, Amsterdam: 60%, The Hague: 58%, Rotterdam: "almost 60%"; said white people are not going far enough in opposing "the Great Replacement" agenda - also involving endless murders, stabbings and rapes of white people by immigrants - by "this corrupt elite invit[ing] the enemy in." [196] Apart from the predictable nationalist, anti-EU (as in: destroy it completely), and anti-Ukraine stance, it was a great, informative and motivating speech. You don't see this too often from other social media alt-rightists: they tend to avoid statistics and key subjects, don't mention terms as "the Great Replacement", and also don't use words as "New World Order" without discrediting themselves.

Similarly, on August 25, 2025, Vlaardingerbroek spoke in the exact same words that I have been using to people, and possibly on ISGP

(I can't remember if or where), namely that political leaders supporting Third World immigration should be held accountable for every assault, murder and rape of a white person by an immigrant:

> "Not one of [the women cited in the newspaper supporting the political slogan to "Claim Back the Night" in light of the recent murder of a girl named Lisa by an asylum seeker] mentioned it, right? So all these [white] virtuous bitches, sorry to put it this way, they all come here crying, "My heart is crying. My blood is boiling." But they're all complicit in perpetuating this problem. ... Instead of saying the borders must be closed, [because] this wave of violence we're seeing is due to mass migration. And we must hold the leaders responsible for that accountable. No, instead, they all just fall in line and cry about "femicide" [and make the white man] suspect."[197]

Despite being an interesting speaker, Vlaardingerbroek's entire career and love-life have been dominated by international alt-right activity involving Forum for Democracy, 'Ongehoord Nederland' ('Unheard Netherlands'), just about the only immigration-opposition program allowed on Dutch TV; Le Pen's Front Nationale, PragerU, a major alt-right channel on TikTok and Instagram; Sverigedemokraterna (SD), Tucker Carlson, an anti-Corona lockdown operation at Maes Law [198], and more. She had all the same early ties as Dutch alt right guru and former lover Thierry Baudet: both at the elite University of Leiden, with its Minerva fraternity to persons as Henry Kissinger ally Professor Giles Scott-Smith and Baudet's Republican Society mentor Paul Cliteur; and in French Front Nationale circles, in turn closely tied to the CIA, MI6, Knights of Malta, and Opus Dei-tied Cercle Pinay group.

In 2024 she married [199] into a centuries-old Italian noble family: Gargallo di Castel Lentini. [200] This family is situated in the leadership of the Knights of Malta, alongside Knight of Malta president Prince Lorenzo Borghese [201], of the same family as "the Black Prince": Knight of Malta Prince Valerio Borghese (1906–1974), involved with Nazis, fascist "stay-behind" armies, and CIA coups during the Cold War. Coincidence? Probably not.

Gen. Tommaso Gargallo di Castel Lentini
Prince Lorenzo Borghese: SMOM president

In October 2025 she spoke at a Washington, D.C. conference under the leadership of "alt right" General Mike Flynn, the one-time Trump national security advisor, quiet top globalist, and 2016-2017 pizzagate promoter; along with fellow Pizzagate promoter Jack Posobiec, who has a history involving Rick Santorum, the "conservative CIA"-funded David Horowitz Freedom Center, Naziism, anti-left false flags, and the Trump administration; Tommy Robinson, Lara Logan, and Rob Roos, another old representative of the Forum for Democracy. [202]

2. Edwin Wagensveld: Head of Pegida Netherlands, the anti-Islam crusading group regularly in the news. Wagensveld always is featured in the media for burning Korans or wiping his ass with Palestinian flags [203], generally under massive police protection; but also for wearing a t-shirt with swastika in court (albeit to just make a point it's not a forbidden sign) [204], and speaking at anti-corona lockdown protests. [205] His approach is unnecessarily divisive - and therefore likely the exact reason both the media and social media love him. Tommy Robinson, who helped set up a British chapter of Pegida in 2015, also is heavily featured in Instagram suggestions. Wagensveld has repeatedly spoken out in favor of Israel though. [206]

3. Boris van de Ven: Pretty much a nobody who co-hosted GameKings in the Netherlands on Comedy Central NL, TMF, MTV NL and Spike TV. In 2021, one of the first guests invited to the conspiracy disinformation-riddled The Trueman Show. On 'Unheard Netherlands' - there it is again - he was saying that it can be argued that Iran should be allowed to build a nuclear weapon to protect itself from the West and Israel, citing the overthrow of Gaddafi by "the West" as an example what happens to Third World leaders who do not have nukes. [207] Ironically, this was not long before the Iranian regime butchered its own citizens by the tens of thousands.

Van de Ven also makes the usual references to Israel not agreeing to nuclear inspections [208], and that it sponsored Hamas itself. [209] That last point actually is quite good, although Israel's reason for doing so is much more understandible than giving Islamic fundamentalists nuclear missiles. Israel has always done this to undermine the power and legitimacy of the Palestinian Authority, so it can continue to grab Palestinian lands without any serious talks about a Palestinian state. See the Hamas article for this.

4. Harry van Bommel: Ironically, a prominent person aiding Van de Ven in clips on 'Unheard Netherlands' is Harry van Bommel, the old Republican Society member. I have fingered this person for 15 years as being a superlikely antifa / "liberal CIA" secret service plant in Dutch congress. This started in 2010 with me being told by a congressional assistant of a Socialist member of congress that Van Bommel was the only member of congress in that period who filed any formal questions about Bilderberg. In 2025, Van Bommel too argued that maybe Iran should be allowed to have nuclear weapons to defend itself from Israel. [210] He also made the odd claim that Israel attacked Iran, because "the U.S. and Iran were at the point of making a nuclear deal." [211] Trump asked Iran for such a deal for months. It refused every single time. Van Bommel's comments also came immediately before Trump bombing Iran's nuclear sites.

5. Lale Gul: The most prominent Dutch "alt right" pundit for me on Instagram in mid 2025. Known for being shunned by her family and Dutch Muslims for distancing herself from the Islam. Her only "sources of power" seem to be decent looks and being a columnist for the Telegraaf, a fake semi-alt right newspaper, somewhat similar to Fox News in the United States.

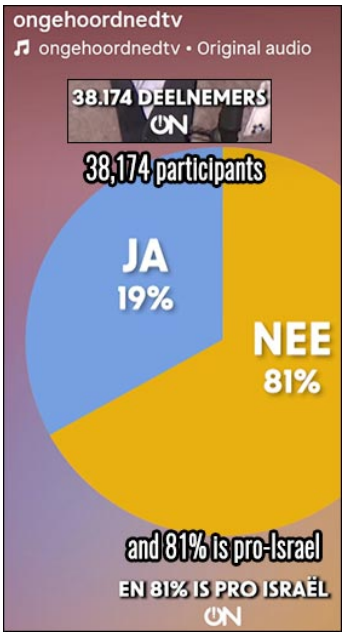
6. Bram Moszkowicz: A Jew and Holland's most famous lawyer, whose entire family ISGP already suspected as likely intelligence assets back when writing an article on the Joris Demmink child abuse affair in 2014. Bram was disbarred for life in 2012, but from April 2015 to January 2016 emerged as the chairman of the right-conservative party VoorNederland. Beyond that, he also kept appearing in the media. In 2025, he did say what ISGP has been writing about for years, namely that "liberal CIA"-funded groups as "Amnesty [International] and Human Rights Watch, those are not neutral organizations. ... No [also not the United Nations]...." Unfortunately, Bram used it in relation to a left-right international media dispute (with Lale Gul, of all people) of a photograph that "staged hunger" in Gaza, used by the right and Bram to deny there's no evidence Israel is blocking aid. [212] He's a peculiar pro-Israel propagandist.

In brief: also for the Netherlands I get the overwhelming impression that the Instagram suggestions algorithm very much favors propagandists that the intelligence services, and certainly the globalist movement, wants promoted. Whether they are neocon, alt right, or antifa: it doesn't matter. As long as they stick to certain prepared narratives.

Dutch alt right: 81%+ in favor of Israel, yet opposed by most Instagram-suggested "mainstream alt right"



At the time of the June 2025 Israel-Iran War, the Instagram page of 'Unheard Netherlands' showed a whole lot of anti-Israel and pro-Iran and pro-Hamas propaganda. That's odd, one would think, because Dutch people dislike Arab immigrants a lot more than Jews - which is why 'Unheard Netherlands' is so popular.

Indeed, in a poll held among 'Unheard Netherlands' members, the host, seemingly somewhat uncomfortably, reported that 81% of its 38,174 (voting) members were in favor of continued arms shipments to Israel.

Ironically, consistently on all 'Unheard Netherlands' posts, it's the anti-Jew and anti-Israel comments who by far gain the most likes. Apart from ordinary anti-immigration posters having been censored online all over the place for over a decade, and likely having tuned out, most likely these upvotes are the result of organized conspiracy disinformation troll networks. They have been a very common phenomenon on YouTube, forums, and comment sections on news sites: everything Holocaust denial and Covid vaccine denial always has received disproportiate upvoting.

In fact, the top-upvoted comment from "the left" involves a pro-Palestine propaganda account. Then an even higher upvoted pro-Palestine comment literally comes from an account propagandizing Thierry Baudet's alt right Forum for Democracy party. It's almost too perfect, the left-right anti-Israel propaganda on social media. But I guess ISGP is just good at analyzing - and has a political boxes model that works.

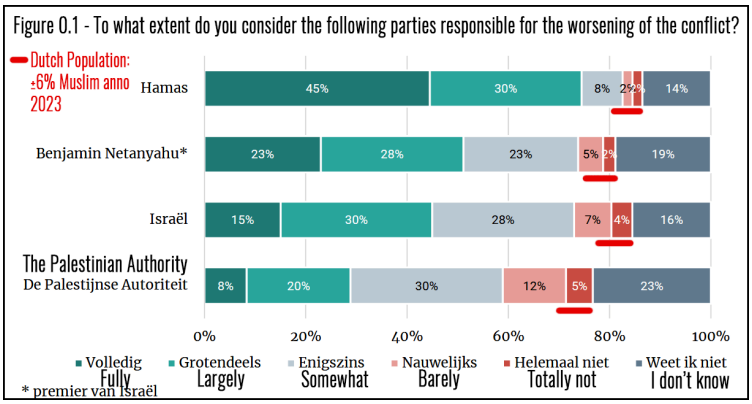
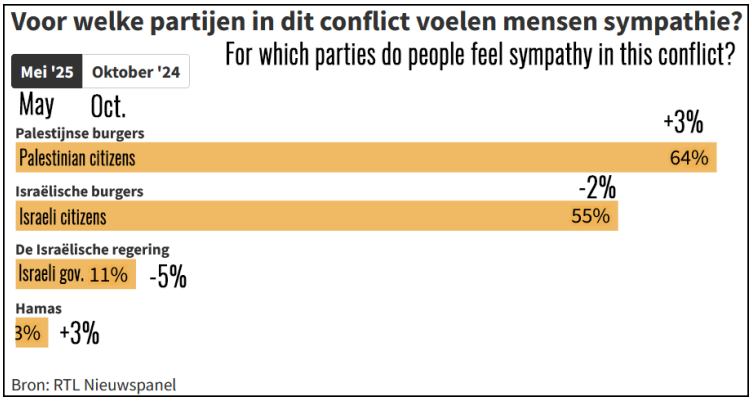
Ordinary people much more in the middle on Israel-Palestine

Even outside of 'Onghoord Nederland' membership, it can be said that among regular citizens - compared to social media-featured activists - there is much more balance between support for Israel and support for the Palestinians.

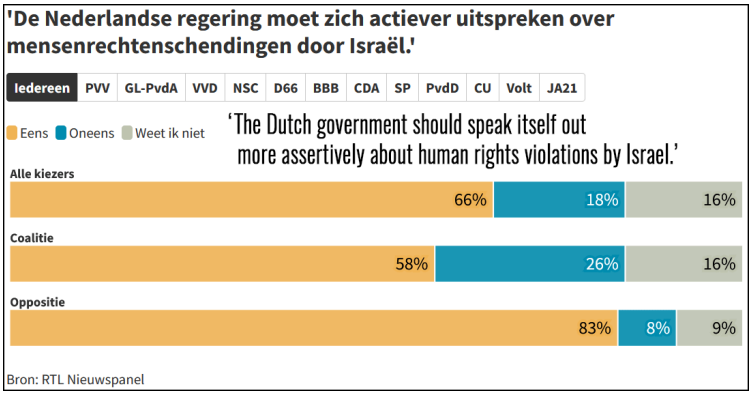
For example, in the weeks after the October 7, 2023 Hamas attack, despite criticism on Netanyahu, Hamas was seen as the major problem for the escalation of violence:



As footage started coming out in 2024 that Gaza was completely in ruins, followed in 2025 by ever increasing accusations that people in Gaza were starving, people's opinions started to shift towards increased sympathy for the Palestinians. However, this did not mean that average people lost all sympathy for the Israelis. That can be seen, for instance, in the poll below. Despite the Palestinians sitting in the midst of a reported "genocide", the Israelis received almost just as much sympathy:



As also the following poll shows, the Dutch people mainly were critical of the Netanyahu government, or maybe better voiced: their hearts don't allow them to approve of an apparent genocide:



I say the latter, because the following May 1, 2025-released poll that was financed by "liberal CIA"-funded NGOs as Oxfam Novib, Amnesty International, Save the Children, and The Rights Forum, these groups were complaining:

> "Research shows: Most Dutch people do not support the Israel policy of the government ... 48% of the Dutch thinks that Israel is committing genocide in Gaza. [But] Just 12% [explicitely] disagrees with that."[213]

I don't fully know what to make of some of the polls. Some clearly are cleverly constructed and picked. In a May 2025 Pew Poll - a polling bureau controlled by globalist elites - the Dutch suddenly emerged as the leading critics of Israel in Europe: 78% of those polled. There's a lot to say there, including Germany's obvious Holocaust complex, but it's a vague question: What are your "views on Israel"? I'd vote "somewhat unfavorable" too, due to not trusting Netanyahu one bit. And I'm an Israel supporter. It certainly doesn't mean that I'm on the side of Hamas or the Palestinians. [214]

In another poll, in 2024, 44% of Dutch people were opposed to Israel's participation in the Eurovision Song Festival. In 2025 this apparently had grown to a whopping 56%. [215] Okay, interesting, but first's there's the 6-17% immigrant percentage. Then there's the issue of 54% of Dutch viewers being female, the show being live-streamed at gay bars, with apparently 62% of dedicated viewers identifying themselves as "LGBTQ". Over the line these are very soft people, who identify a lot with the whole "wokeness package" of LGBTQ plus immigration; and are not people that will fight for our freedom.

Aspects ignored in anti-Israel social media propaganda

This too has been moved to ISGP's Hamas article. It includes questions of realpolitik. It includes facts that the Arabs have about 30 IQ points lower than western Jews, with quitely possibly a bigger gap existing with uneducated Palestinians; the much higher crime rate among Arabs; and the 88% support for October 7 among Arabs, with 86% thinking it involved acceptable violence.

ANTI-IMMIGRATION

Primitive Africans

Finally sets of Instagram suggestions that I can pretty much support across the line. However, there's a lot of oddness here too. For example, some of the occasional videos suggested were the following:

What are people supposed to take from videos like this? Point fingers and say, "Look at these primitives!"? And equate it with immigrants? Is it a preferred "hateful" counter to the earlier-discussed, suggested, and bizarre claim that "Europeans never had a culture"? Is it to make black people feel ashamed? I don't know. The middle video had no less than 383,000 likes, so it's been seen by a lot of people.

I'm not sure why this video is in the mix, but I suspect it is to underscore that black people, without colonialism, would forever have stayed "savages without culture". Personally, I do not get triggered by black people in Africa. And appreciate seeing how people lived before the modern era.

Blacks speaking out against immigration

Personally I feel that white people talking about how they have "black friends", simply are just scared of being accused of racism. Even beyond that, I feel white people cannot truly have black or Arab friends until they put them through the test by asking if they agree that white people - over the line, not the individual - are superior IQ- and crime-wise. If your black or Arab friend starts protesting, or worse, gets angry, he never was your friend. He's a danger. He's in denial. We might get along really well, but if this issue can't be brought up and I just have to "ignore" it, you're a potential danger to me. I'm going to assume that when push comes to shove, they'll pick their own race and become your enemy - which I've seen a lot in particular with Arabs.

That's why personally I love black people (I haven't seen any Arabs) who acknowledge truths as: white people have much lower crime numbers and have invented infinitely more things - likely because they have a higher genetic IQ. Any black person who admits that, is a major green flag for me, and will be among the last to stay in the West if full-scale deportations are underway.

As it happens, very occasionally a video is suggested on Instagram in which black people themselves admit to the crime and even IQ issues within their own race. One example is the guy on the right, who in the video says:

> "I like to ask the question: ... If white supremacy was real, why is it that every time you black people get some money, you move to the white neighborhood?"

Actually, it means that whites have a superior civilization, hence "white supremacy" is real in the sense that they really are "superior" in this regard. But the reader likely gets the point the man is making: black people complaining about white people indicates a refusal to self-reflect.

Christian minister Jesse Lee Peterson is discussed elsewhere in this article, largely for having said the following on Dr. Phil:

> "White people tend to be more innovative. They are more creative. They have ideas about things. All these other races don't do nothing but destroy."[216]

Peterson could have explained that this message does not involve Jews and Asians, but again, the reader likely gets the point that is being made. Peterson is known to make similar comments:

> "White people build. Black people destroy. They are the darkness in this world. White people are the light. Just like the skin tone."[217]

He also stated:

> "The good white folks are going to go to moon or somewhere else and they're going to create another country... Unless white people take over, it's over for America."[218]

Peterson might be allied with right-wing propagandists, personally I find it hard to disagree with him. Ironically, what he is saying, will land him in prison in West-European countries.

Peterson and other white and black people criticizing black people over crime and IQ most readily are supported by the black Hodge Twins fitness couple, who have turned full conservative propagandist. Below are two YouTube videos, with related screenshots of videos I personally was suggested on Instagram:

In another promoted video by the Hodge Twins they show a video of a black pastor saying the following. I was never suggested this video, but easily could have been - as the Hodge Twins were regular suggestions on Instagram for me:

> "You can train a black man to be a physician... to be an astrophysicist [or] to be a lawyer. But you can't train him to understand the world. He doesn't know. I'm telling you: ... There's not two cents of difference between a petty thief that's locked away in prison and a black doctor, when it comes to understanding the world. ... We got to deal with this: ... Black people had Africa, that big old continent over there. They never built one boat that was seaworthy. Not one. There's not one monument in Africa... I know you're talking about Egypt. Egypt is not Africa [with the pyramids built by Ancient Greek and Near Eastern people]. There were no great cities being built. ... Black men built nothing: no sewer system, no houses above one level, and none of them made out of stone. ... The worst thing that could ever happen to South Africa was when they gave it to Nelson Mandela and black folk."[219]

A related personal Instagram suggestion of a black reporter for the New York Tribune and (right-wing) Washington Times named Franck Zanu [220] explained something similar to a black, female interviewer:

Looking a bit at Africa's economic (d)evolvement since the decline of the white man, it's not good. You read story after story of black people in Africa essentially having no long-term vision and no interest in trying to figure out how things work, how to repair technology handed to them, or how to improve things. The spark of curiosity is just missing - the most readily available explanation being genetically low IQ.

The main reason white farmers have not yet been fully tossed out of a now-crime-infested South Africa (only about 12%) and Namibia (about 27%) is because when Robert Mugabe did this in Zimbabwe in 2000 by taking the land of 4,500 white farmers. The economy collapsed, eventually forcing the country to beg whites to come back and advise black people with "no experience" on how to properly farm. [221] The economy only started to revive after 2010, but even today, despite increases in foreign aid, 60% of Zimbabwe lives under the poverty line, with 40% subsiding in extreme poverty.

As for the revived farming output in certain sections, for example in tobacco, this only came back to full capacity due to government subsidies, white advisors, and most importantly due to massive contract farming schemes of Chinese companies as Tian Ze Tobacco Company. Instead of black farmers operating independently (which leads to only 40-60% of old capacity), it's these companies that provide the seeds, fertilizer and pesticides. Then they oversee the black farmers how to plant and grow. After harvesting, they take all the revenues, subtract the investment costs, and essentially pay the black farmers their wages. It's just another form of colonization, but it is doubtful it can be any other way for Sub-Saharan Africa. They have the lowest IQ, and therefore can be dominated by any other race on planet Earth.

The following Instagram suggestions were interesting too:

In one, a black person explains that it is more logical for black people to feel guilty over their extremely high modern crime numbers than it is to tell modern white people to feel guilty about slavery from hundreds of years ago that they have had nothing to do with. This is exactly the argument this author has been making.

In other videos, two of which screenshotted here, black people too are very concerned about the level of black-on-black crime in their neighborhoods, although it must be said that a lot of the time they seem to care less about black-on-white crime: which in the U.S. has stood at 27x higher than white-on-black.

The masked black man in the video has been excerpted on Instagram from a much longer YouTube interview involving "South Africa's most ruthless hijacker."[222] In the segment he makes a good point: namely that many well-to-do South Africans are an enemy to him, because they "act too white". So he's acknowledging that black and white people carry themselves differently, which, once again, is exactly a point I have been making over the years. A lot of animosity of white people towards black people is because they don't "act white". They "act black". It's one of these forbidden things to talk about. But it's acknowledged in this Instagram video clip from the black side as well.

Western cities being overrun by Third World immigrants

The alt right loops have many issues, most notably Nazi-ism, but tons of videos of western cities and countries being overrun by Third World immigrants, are quite useful. Here are examples from Europe:

Promoting conspiracy Nazis: only discredits

Pretty typical Instagram suggestion of an anti-immigration channel: actually Christian Nazism equating communism with Zionism. It's a century-old strategy. Earlier I also mentioned the suggestion of Ken O'Keefe in the 2017 Neo-Nazi film 'Europa: The Last Battle' as an example.

Apart from conspiracy disinformation, a ton of the suggested "alt right" Instagram channels criticizing Third World immigration, engage in Holocaust denial and general Jew-hatred. The names and symbols tend to make the channel's views clear before even checking anything that is posted on them. These soulless propaganda channels simply are the favorite way of any western security agency or NGO (if there even is a difference) to marginalize and discredit immigration opposition.

One aspect that also is noteworthy is that there's very little focus on statistics compared to incident reporting. The mentioning of race IQ, despite the Nazi-esque character of so many anti-immigration channels, is at least as noteworthy.

In all the years of watching Instagram and TikTok suggestions, I've only heard one person make references to the low IQ of black people. This occurred on June 25, 2025 - in the Trump-era TikTok - when influencer @hermesdiditagain asked a black woman:

> "Why is the IQ for retardation 70, and then the average IQ for Sub-Saharan Africans is 70?"

Predictably, the (black) girl in question said she didn't understand the question, and walked of. I watched him bring up the question on a few other occasions, although far less subtle:

Should race mixing between blacks and whites be illegal?
THAT'S NO PROBLEM.
@HERMESDIDITAGAIN
What if the mixed black-white kids have
TEN LOWER IQ POINTS?
STILL NO PROBLEM.

He also went into black people being heavily overrepresented in crime, with most white people in particular being too afraid to answer basic questions as:

> "Do you know which race is 13% of the population and commits 50% of the crime?"

Unfortunately, Hermes too quickly became more and more disrespectfully racist in asking questions. He went from "ten points lower IQ" to "retarded", "mutt", i.e. mixed-breed stupid person; and "throwing away blue eyes". He went from talking about "black people" to hints of "people who eat watermelon, eat friend chicken, and drink grape kool-aid". As the anti-Israel sentiment on Instagram and TikTok exploded, he also started flirting with Holocaust denial and conspiracy disinformation:

1. "Do you think race mixing should be illegal? ... Chocolate men? Why should race mixing be legal if the child is more likely to be retarded?"
2. "Do you think your grandparents or great grandparents or your ancestors would be proud if they looked down and you had a child with a black person? And the child turned out to be a mutt? And you threw away all those blue eyes?"

3. "Say there were 100 sheep and 13 of them are committing 50% of the problems on the farm. What should we do with them?" Pretty hilarious answer (as often): "Kill them! Yeah, why do you need them? ... You're gonna take all the problems away!"
4. "Why do you think people who eat watermelon, eat friend chicken, and drink grape kool-aid, are more likely to murder someone?"
5. "Why do you think fried chicken fast food places are more likely to succeed in high crime areas?" Black girls laughing and going: "Because of black folks!" and "Because of black people." Soon after, they start behaving like they don't understand the question.

COOKIE MONSTER
@HERMESDIDITAGAIN
15 OVENS AND HE HAD FIVE YEARS TO COOK SIX MILLION COOKIES.
DO YOU THINK THAT'S POSSIBLE?
I WOULD SAY IT 271,000.

8. "Say the Cookie Monster had 15 ovens, and he had 5 years to cook 6 million cookies. Do you think that's possible? ... I would think it's closer to 271,000." Here Hermes is suggesting that only 271,000 Jews could have been killed during the Holocaust. Not 6 million.
9. "Let's say a group of people, like their religious practice was to, after they circumcise a child, to clean up that circumcision with their mouths. Like, do you think we should accept that as a normal practice?" (note: this is only still practiced with a small set of ultra-orthodox Jews) Guy answering: "[That sounds like] liars. They might control the banks. Doesn't sound like good people at all."

10. "Why do yopu think JP Morgan and the other Federal Reserve bankers canceled their trip on the Titanic at the last minute?" Note: It's true that a very old and sick J.P. Morgan, Sr. canceled his Titanic trip to remain at a health center in France - and there's no evidence of any kind of plot. John Jacob Astor IV and Jewish bankers Benjamin Guggenheim and Isidor Straus were among the prominent people who died. The Federal Reserve didn't exist until 1913, no one involved in the 1910 Jekyll Island meeting establishing the Federal Reserve booked or canceled a trip on the Titanic..

So, basically, even after all this time I have not found any genuine anti-immigration activist on Instagram. Every single one seems to be a propagandist and disinformer steered by the intelligence services, and those same intelligence services making sure that these people, and primarily these people end up in the suggestion algorithm.

CONCLUDING REMARKS

Experiences by others

After this article was done, I asked a person in the United States if what I have been suggested over the years, was recognizable to him. His reply:

> "I've definitely been suggested over the years hard propaganda "liberal CIA versus conservative CIA" type stuff, as well as massive amounts of conspiracy disinfo and anti-Israel stuff.
> "On occasion I've gotten the trannie male to female "model" suggestion. I often get the OnlyFans models or straight up female pornstars. I've definitely, in the past, been suggested incredibly questionable young model photos as well. Just today thought I was getting Nick Fuentes ranting complaining about Trump and Israel, or never being about to get a girlfriend. Also was getting this ninth crusade theme which was interesting. I've really just never kept track of what kinda stuff has been suggested to me."[223]

I should ask others. But in between Google censorship and pretty much not having a social network, I can't get much input at the time.

On January 6, 2026, an 18-year-old Kai Trump, President Donald Trump's granddaughter, said the following on Logan Paul's Impaulsive podcast:

> "I don't want anything to do with politics... I think if both sides met in the middle, everyone would be so much happier. I think there's a lot of this radical left, there's radical right. There's a lot of people that get too extreme, and that's where social media really ties into it, because social media kind of makes your Instagram, or your feed, or whatever, kind of either be really one way or the other. And there's not a lot of things on social media where it's you're very much in the middle."

Kai's remarks are the first time in 10 years+ I'm recommended a social media story (if YouTube counts) that points out the super-obvious - and is the exact point I'm making in this article.

Conclusions

I'm not so sure what to write anymore at this point. The title and section titles of this article, as always, are meant to be as self-explanatory as possible. But I have no insider ties. Hence, I don't have a peek behind the curtain. I'm also not psychic. So we're always back to same old questions:

1. Where does the bureaucratic Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) end and the Globalist Intelligence Agency (GIA) take over?
2. Where does CIA recruitment end and the promotion of psycho-analyzed radical, crazy individuals begins?

I don't know. But both Instagram and TikTok are globalist propaganda and controlled opposition operations. So much is clear. And it feels like whoever is running the suggestions matrices of these social media platforms is directly plugged into Satan. It's just so all-encompassingly manipulative.

Another easy conclusion to draw is that people on planet Earth are asleep at the wheel.

    Sean Parker: I was walking outside the house, and there was this group of kids walking toward me—they were all wearing hoodies and they looked like they were probably pot-smoking high-school kids just out making trouble, and I hear my name. [When Nick Fuentes is talking about Jewish race loyalty and briefly mentions New York City's Chabad-Lubavitch tunnel controversy:] "They [the Jews] are here, in our tunnel system!"*
Adam King (Jewish Hollywood director and producer) being blatantly wrong (CIA-Mossad backed the Shah, but lost him to the Ayatollahs): "The Iranian people want to overthrow the dictatorial Mullahs. And what about the Iranian people? Before the CIA overthrew the Shah in 1979, Israel and at the time it was Persia - not Iran - Israel and Iran were best friends in the region. The Shah of Persia actually had an official state visit to Israel. The CIA in the Iran-Contra Affair actually overthrew the institution of the Shah. ...

Ayatollah and he really is a pedophile. I mean, this guy really goes around raping all sorts of children. It's insane.

[Accurate:] *And we look at Iran like this innocent creature. But they want to build nuclear weapons. They want to destabilize the region. ... And Iran wants to conquer Saudi Arabia much more than it wants to conquer Israel. It wants to win the Muslim holy war and defeat the Sunnis. ... In fact, Saudi Arabia is chomping at the bits to make peace with Israel. This war only set them back. ... Iran conquered the government in Yemen and installed the Houthis, which has done nothing but destabilize the region... [Goes religious:] *In 1967 and 1976, before we went to war... We dug our own graves in Tel Aviv. It was empty graves when we returned from Babylon [?]. Gavin McInnes being blatantly wrong (Arabs over the line hate the Jews): "The Iranian people love Israel by the way. They don't want a nuclear war obviously. Think of them as North Koreans."

Nick Fuentes pro-Arab, anti-Israel trolling like crazy: *"The United isn't holding an umbrella over Iran to take over the region, but we are doing that for Israel. [First] Ben Shapiro [went] "We don't need America. Israel can defend itself." Because they're so PROUD! Such a PROUD people [these Jews]! But then when Hamas attacked on October 7th, and this Iranian crescent pincher started to squeeze Israel, Shapiro ... and all the other Zionists went, "If the United States doesn't give Israel what it wants, when it wants it, no questions asked, we're gonna nuke the whole region!"
